Rome-Berlin Axis Bending, Fascists Declare

LONDON SAYS IL DUCE COOLS TOWARD NAZIS

High Fascist Sources There Believe German Alliance Has Passed Zenith.

TWO DICTATORS CONFER

Hitler and Mussolini Meet in Venice Palace on Vital European Affairs.

(Copyright, 1938, by United Press)

LONDON—Italian Fascist sources here said today as the ears of Premier Benito Mussolini and Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, in Rome, rang to the cheers of scores of thousands of people, that the "Rome-Berlin axis" had reached its zenith and that the future would witness its decline.

This was not in accord with official statements but the United Press advices, from high Italian sources, said that nevertheless it was the fact.

Mussolini Cools Off.

Mussolini, the United Press informants said, had found the axis very useful during the troubled period immediately after the Ethiopian war and during the most dangerous days of the Spanish civil war.

But since Hitler's absorption of Austria, they added, he has been wondering whether Germany's expanding power did not constitute a menace to Italy's position, especially in the Adriatic and in southeastern Europe.

Moreover, on the Italian side of the Brenner Pass, the Alpine gateway between Italy and what was Austria, but is now Germany, there are 250,000 German speaking people who are Italians unwillingly, solely because of the World war treaties. It is assumed that Hitler has in them the "protective" interest which he has asserted in Germans of countries adjoining Germany. Now the South Tyrol adjoins Germany.

There were plain signs of a weakening of the extreme cordiality between Italian and Germans when Hitler arrived at Rome yesterday.

Ignored by Vatican.

It was noted that the Osservatore Romano, official organ of the Vatican, completely ignored Hitler's visit—a token of the Vati-

47 Stores to Join Friday In Annual 'Mansfield Day'

Forty-seven stores will take part in the annual Mansfield day Friday.

Under the direction of the Retail Merchants association, store windows will be draped with green pennants to tell shoppers of the special values offered in all lines of merchandise.

Free bus rides to the downtown section will be given to shoppers from 9 to 11:15 a. m. through the courtesy of the Mansfield Rapid Transit company. Out-of-town cars will be allowed unlimited parking when identified with the coupon to appear in The News-Journal tomorrow. A special section of The News-Journal tomorrow will tell of the hundreds of special bargains for the annual shoppers' spree Friday.

Snow, Dust Storms Hit West

DENVER — (AP) — Winter made a few farewell passes at the west and southwest today.

Several inches of snow blanketed western New Mexico. A heavy, wet snow fell in Denver and northern Colorado yesterday. Rain swept the rest of the state. Eight inches of snow covered Pike's Peak.

Residents of northern Arizona shivered in unseasonable cold which brought a light snow. The mercury dropped to 26 degrees at Flagstaff.

COUNCIL PASSES $64,000 WATER BOND ORDINANCE

Agrees by 8-1 Vote to Finance Woodland Improvement by Mortgaging Waterworks.

Acting to create additional WPA employment, city council last night passed a revised $64,000 bond ordinance designed to finance the bulk of a $75,000 Woodland water project.

With a lone dissenting vote cast by Fifth Ward Councilman Fred Miller, the measure was approved after a half-hour discussion of minor changes suggested by Cleveland bond counsel. The ordinance went through as an emergency by a vote of 8 to 1.

Immediate action on the measure was taken last night after a delegation of WPA workers appeared before council and asked for speedy action on the bill in order to head off further unemployment in their ranks.

Warren Wheelock, president of the Works Progress Union, who acted as spokesman for the group, urged council to give "every consideration" for immediate passage of the bill.

Provides Work for 200.

He told council that unless the water project was started, it was likely that 250 WPA laborers would be laid off indefinitely. He pointed out that the project would give 200 men employment for several months.

CHEAPER NOW

Basket of Groceries Costs 20 Per Cent Less.

CHICAGO—(AP)—In sharp contrast to the high cost of food a year ago, the feeding of a family now can be done at the lowest prices in almost four years, a survey of wholesale and retail markets disclosed today.

In the summer of 1937, from May to mid-September, the cost of the housewife's grocery basket rose to the highest point in six years largely as a result of the 1936 drought. A sharp plunge since September, however, has put wholesale prices of important foodstuffs around 20 per cent below that level although they still are about 30 per cent higher than the low point reached early in 1933.

Meat led the break away from the September high in food prices. Latest figures on retail meat prices here show declines ranging from 4 to 11 per cent.

Bromfield's 'Farm' Has Gone to Dogs— It's Now a 'Farm' for Cocker Spaniels

'Lindaire' Largest Kennel of Its Kind In Ohio; 350 Pups Arrive Annually.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Helen Allyn of the Cleveland Press is taking the place of Jane Williams on The News-Journal staff for a week, while the latter "bats" for Miss Allyn on the Press staff.

By HELEN ALLYN

THE FARM, glorified by Louis Bromfield in his novel by that name, has gone to the dogs!

To be exact, the old homestead of Colonel MacDougal west of the city has gone to some 40 droop-eared, sad-eyed pups whose possession of the barn makes "Lindaire" the largest cocker spaniel breeding kennels in the state.

If you don't think that's big-time business, consider the production basis—350 pups a year. With each canine offspring bringing an average of $36.50, the gross profits, at least, are large enough to rate dog-raising as one more of this town's diversified industries.

* * *

High on the hill overlooking route 30-N, where Mansfield's early settlers cleared the woods and planted crops more than 100 years ago, is the site of this thriving industry.

Here, Mrs. Roy Mitchell and her 13-year-old son, Jack, now spend most of their waking hours caring for the spaniels. And when Mr. Mitchell comes home from his job as controller of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, he digs into to the kennel correspondence.

Quite a job it is, too.

Mrs. Mitchell wears overalls to prove it is no sissy business being a dietitian to a kennel of cockers. Feeding grown dogs twice a day is enough to keep most people busy, but when pups arrive (as many as 150 in the same week) the well-known "woman in the shoe" has nothing on this lady.

"Pups," Mrs. Mitchell reminds the visitor, "have to be fed not twice a day but four and five times."

That takes an average of one ton of commercial food each month, plus two cows butchered on the farm, and milk.

A cocker spaniel pup brings from $20 up. Some of them cost the purchaser as high as $125, all depending on the good points. Last year's average was $36.50 per pup, running the total gross sales about $12,500.

There are some dogs at the kennels that the Mitchell's wouldn't sell for $1,000. Two of their fav-

PARK AND FIRE BONDS OKAYED

Council Approves Issuance of $21,000 to Buy Equipment, Improve Recreation Spots.

Improvements in two city departments had been definitely assured today as the result of city council's approval last night of the issuance of $21,000 in general bonds within the 10-mill limitation.

The bond issue provides $6,000 for improving the city park system and $15,000 for three separate improvements in the fire department that would include the purchase of a new piece of apparatus.

The bonds will be issued without submitting them to the voters because they are within the 10-mill limitation allowed by law, officials pointed out. They are to be retired from real estate taxes over a five-year period.

The ordinance sets up $8,500 for the purchase of a new pumper for the fire department and $1,500 for the purchase of 20 fire plugs. Another $5,000 is earmarked for improving the fire and police signal system to carry on the extensive underground program started last Columbus Woman, Victim of Mad Killer, Shows Improvement.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Slight improvement was noted today in the condition of Mrs. Ella Brewer, 53, who was the victim of a brutal beating while she lay in bed with Mrs. Lida Priest, 70. The latter was fatally injured and her son-in-law, Arthur McKibben, 54, was sought by police.

McKibben was hunted after his wife told police she heard Mrs. Brewer screaming in a downstairs bedroom of their south side home.

Started In '34, Cut-Off To Be Completed by Fall

Contract for Paving Re-located Section of Route 42 To Be Awarded Soon, Wierman Predicts.

After four years of waiting, Richland and Ashland county motorists will be able to drive over a paved cut-off on route 42 at Windsor by next fall, Boyd Wierman, Richland county resident state highway engineer, predicted today.

Wierman said he was expecting notice of advertising for bids on the $281,000 project "at any time" and said he expected the job to be completed within six or seven months.

Started in 1934 as a CWA project, the improvement at the Richland-Ashland county line has been delayed a number of times because of lack of funds and recently because of disputes over land right-of-ways for the new road. Request for bids is awaiting approval of the change in right-of-way plans, the highway department said.

The project is 3.59 miles long and will shorten the trip between Mansfield and Ashland by more than a mile and a half, eliminating numerous dangerous curves. Some grading remains to be done on the cut-off before actual paving can be started, Wierman said.

Approved by U. S.

Already approved by the federal government, the project will be completed with state and federal funds.

Meanwhile, tentative approval has been received on a $150,000 grade elimination project on route 30-N one mile east of Crestline. Wierman said plans have not yet been completed for the project which will eliminate a dangerous crossing over the Pennsylvania railroad tracks.

Wage-Hour Foes Plan Fight to Keep Bill From House.

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Senate foes discussed precautionary strategy today for blocking wage-hour legislation in the event determined administration efforts to force it through the house should prove successful.

The senate passed a wage-hour bill last summer, but Senators George (D.-Ga.) and Smith (D.-S. C.) said that since the house measure differs so greatly, it should go to the senate labor committee instead of directly to a joint conference committee.

That action would delay senate consideration, and adjournment might intervene.

Across the capitol, house proponents of the legislation renewed their campaign for organized labor's support of their efforts to force the bill to the floor by May 23.

2 DROWNED AS WATERSPOUT UPSETS BOAT

Tidal Wave Near Lorain Takes Lives of Fishermen; Lake Level Rises 3 Feet.

WIND SHIFT BLAMED

Whirling Mass 25 Feet High Sends Water Rushing Into Power Company.

(By United Press)

LORAIN—A 25-foot waterspout and its backwash today capsized two small boats at Avon, near here, and two fishermen were reported drowned.

The men, fishing in a boat close to shore, were thrown from the craft as the waterspout, described as a whirling mass at least 25 feet high, swamped it.

Tidal Wave Follows.

There followed a huge wash that was described as a tidal wave, ascribed to a sudden shift in the wind.

The wave made the men's efforts to swim futile and both soon went under.

The wave—timed at 6:30 a. m. —was followed by a short squall.

The victims were off the breakwall near the Avon plant of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating company. Officials there said the wave raised the lake level about three feet and sent water backing up into an outlet of the plant and into the basement. There was no damage, however.

Check Driver's License.

Capt. Paul Fornier, of the Lorain coast guard station, said the lake level lifted at least two feet in Lorain.

Efforts to identify the victims centered on a driver's license found in a parked car near the scene. The license was issued to Earl Dixon, said to live in Fairview, O. License of the car was issued to Hugo Dykstra, of Cleveland.

Waterspouts have been more or less common occurrences in this vicinity in recent years, but never have done any damage. Fortunately for this city, which still recalls with dread the tragic tornado of 1924, which killed 77 persons and did millions of dollars in damage, most of them have been sighted comfortably far off shore.

Today's waterspout was closer to the shore than any in recent years, witnesses said.

HOME GUARDED

Gov. Hurley Gets Threat Note From 'Black Hornet.'

BOSTON — (AP)—State troopers guarded the Cambridge home of Gov. Charles F. Hurley today while police chemists sought fingerprints on a crudely printed note warning "Beware governor—your dogher will be missing one week from today."

"Dogher" was interpreted to mean one of Hurley's three daughters, Betty, 13, Nancy, 6, and Ellen Sarah, 5 months.

The note, scrawled in black ink on a piece of unruled paper, was signed "The Black Hornet." A post-script said "Police won't do any good."

Governor Hurley kept a speaking engagement in Taunton last night, and Mrs. Hurley, who was in New York with Betty and Charles, jr., 11, decided to continue their vacation trip to Washington.

ANNA CHEERED BY DEATH STAY

Electrocution Day Put Off at Least Until Fall Pending U. S. Court Action.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Elated over her escape from death in the electric chair, for the time being at least, Anna Marie Hahn prepared patiently today for the long wait until fall when the U. S. supreme court was expected to act on her appeal.

"Whew! What a relief," exclaimed Joseph H. Hoodin, one of Mrs. Hahn's attorneys, after Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio supreme court sanctioned the appeal yesterday.

Hoodin then hastened to Ohio penitentiary where he informed the blond Cincinnati poison-murderess that the Ohio court's action had stayed her execution, scheduled late today.

'Mrs. Hahn, too, was pleased," Hoodin reported after visiting her. He said she had been listening anxiously for news reports of the court's action over the radio in her cell near "death row."

The appeal virtually assures Mrs. Hahn of life until autumn at least and an opportunity to ask the nation's highest court to set aside her conviction for the fatal poisoning of Jacob Wagner, aged Cincinnati gardener.

Hoodin said that the U. S. supreme court might not be able to review the case on its merits until October. Should the nation's highest court act favorably on the motion allowed by Weygandt, Hoodin said several more months might elapse before a decision.

Mrs. Hahn's attorneys appealed on the ground that the Ohio statute under which she was prosecuted was unconstitutional.

9-CENT BOOST SOUGHT FROM SMALL USERS

Asks Rate Similar to One It Collected Under Bond Prior to 1935 Settlement.

5-YEAR CONTRACT URGED

Company's Offer 14 Cents Per Thousand Above Figure Set by Council Committee.

Figures on the Ohio Fuel Gas company's request for a rate increase in Mansfield were made public today.

If the proposal were accepted, the 5,000-foot consumer would again pay 74 cents a thousand, the same rate the company collected under bond before 1935, when it agreed to a settlement, which brought the rate for the 5,000-foot consumer down to 65 cents, a nine-cent reduction.

Rejected by Utility.

The company's proposal is 14 cents a thousand feet higher, for the 5,000-foot consumer, than that submitted to the company by the utilities committee of city council Monday night, and rejected by the company.

The Ohio Fuel, according to Manager William C. Mead, who made public the figures contained in the company's proposal, would like a five-year contract at that figure.

The company's proposal would increase the monthly bill of the 5,000-foot consumer 45 cents a month or $5.40 a year; that of the 7,000-foot user 65 cents a month or $7.80 a year, and the 10,000-foot user 95 cents a month or $10.30 a year.

Similar to 'Sandbag' Rate.

Consumers who use more than 5,000 feet of gas per month would pay a slightly lower rate, but it would approximate the rate paid previous to the 1935 settlement—which was the "sandbag" rate of a contract which remained in effect from 1931 to 1935, and which the company collected under bond, after it had rejected the 1931 ordinance of city council.

Under the "sandbag" rate, the 5,000-foot consumer also paid 74 cents a thousand, the 7,000-foot consumer 70 cents a thousand and the 10,000-foot consumer 67 cents a thousand.

Under the company's new proposal the monthly rates would be: for 5,000 feet, 74 cents a thousand; for 7,000 feet, 68½cents a thousand and for 10,000 feet, 64½ cents a thousand.

The present ordinance, which expires May 15, sets a rate of 65 cents per thousand feet for the

'Not Charity, But a Chance', Aim Of Social Workers Who Opens Fund Drive

Clevelander to Speak at First Campaign Dinner Monday Evening.

A social worker who believes in giving "not charity, but a chance," will be principal speaker at the dinner meeting Monday which will launch the annual Community Fund campaign.

He is Rev. Frank Baker, director of Cleveland Goodwill Industries, an institution that collects old furniture, old clothes, old toys and creates paying jobs for clients, repairing the articles for use.

Approximately 200 workers whose job for the next two weeks will be to get their share of the Community Fund 1938 goal of $53,950, will get their last-minute instructions in campaigning from the chairman, Arthur S. Hughes. The dinner is to be held at 6:30 p. m. in the First M. E. church.

"We'll have to sell the fund harder than ever this year," Hughes said, "because some of the men who formerly gave one or two days' pay aren't working this year and their contributions will have to be made up by people who can afford to give more."

Hughes said the preliminary work of staging the campaign is already under way. Cards have been distributed in factories, stores, schools and professional groups for pledges.

Following Monday night's meeting, report sessions will be held every other day until the goal is reached.

Additional hints on how to "get that pledge" will be given

JURORS HEAR CIVIL SERVICE WORKERS TALK

Steady Stream of Witnesses Enters Grand Jury Room as Duffy Speeds Probe.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—A steady stream of state civil service employes continued to pour into a special grand jury room today as assistant attorneys general gave out information that already more than 12 state officials and persons close to Governor Davey have been involved in collection of campaign contributions.

Will P. Stephenson, assistant attorney general in charge of the probe, said that enough additional witnesses to keep the investigation going through Friday will be called today. He said no department heads would be brought before the grand jury until next week.

Call Liquor Employes.

Meanwhile, in Cincinnati, sub poenas for more than 100 liquor store employes were being served as the regular Hamilton county grand jury began an investigation of reported campaign collections in that area.

Prosecutor Dudley M. Outcalt said that a list of 56 civil service employes had been furnished him, but he demanded also a list of provisional employes declaring that these persons are automatically on the classified list and any solicitation from them is a violation of law.

Hamilton county deputies reported they could not find Frank C. Schroer, district supervisor of liquor stores, but his assistant, Bert Heidemann, was called to testify. He promised to furnish the provisional list Outcalt required.

Trouble was anticipated at the beginning of the Cincinnati investigation when Miss Louis M. Jones, secretary to Schroer, told deputies her superior had telephoned from Columbus ordering her to withhold a list of employes.

The grand jury immediately ordered the list prepared and then without waiting for it to be completed, called the secretary before the investigators. The list was furnished later.

Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy has said he believed at least three weeks would be required to complete the inquiry being conducted here.

Fish Don't Bite So Roosevelt's Boat Heads East

CHARLESTON, S. C.—(INS)—President Roosevelt's Carribean fishing party dropped anchor early this morning off Sombrero Island, northeast of Puerto Rico, hopeful the day's luck would be better than that which has folfollowed them thus far.

After a rather disappointing day spent in Samana Bay, San Domingo, the president recalled recent assurances of Governor Blanton Winship that the fish were running well off Puerto Rico and ordered the cruiser Philadelphia to proceed eastward to Sombrero Island.

Avoiding the beaten lanes, up to last night only one freighter has been sighted by the presidential party. According to radioed word from the Philadelphia, Mr. Roosevelt was enjoying his temporary isolation to the utmost.

And the clerks agreed with him, but they made him bring in his fiancee before issuing the license.

FAMILY OF 10 ROUTED BY FIRE

Farm House South of Shelby Ignited as Kerosene Lamp Overturns, Destroyed.

SHELBY—Fire caused by a kerosene lamp early today destroyed the farm home of Lester Jewett, one and a half miles southeast of here on the Mansfield-Shelby road, causing damage estimated at $1,500.

The family of 10, including Jewett, his wife, and eight children, ranging in ages from four to 16 years, were asleep in bedrooms on the first and second floors when the fire broke out at 1 a. m.

Seven of the children, sleeping in bedrooms on the second floor, were taken out of the burning house by a 16-year-old daughter, Della, who was sleeping on the first floor with her parents. Jewett, partially blind, was escorted to safety by his wife.

The fire started about 1 a. m. in the first floor bedroom when Jewett knocked over a lighted lamp as he reached for some medicine on a table located near the bed, Shelby firemen said. The burning lamp ignited the table and rug.

An attempt was made by the family to call the Shelby fire department but the flames destroyed telephone wires. The department was then summoned by neighbors, but when firemen arrived the house had burned to the ground.

Everything was lost but a few pieces of clothing and a washing machine stored in a shed near the house.

F[illegible]S RUN LOW

Minton to Ask $25,000 More to Conduct Lobby Probe.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Chairman Minton (D-Ind.) said today he soon would request between $15,000 and $25,000 for further investigations by the senate lobby committee.

The committee so far has had appropriations totaling $62,500, but Minton said the funds were running low.

CHINESE SMASH THROUGH JAP LINES, PUSH ADVANCE 12 MILES

(By Associated Press)

SHANGHAI—A general Chinese offensive all along the south Shantung front was declared by the Chinese command to have smashed through the center of the Japanese lines at Taierhchwang today and to have advanced 12 miles.

Chinese advance guards fought forward five miles in a night battle, adding these gains in the first assault yesterday.

The field commanders of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek declared the tide of war was turning in their favor.

His high command, hopefully awaiting bulletins from the front, said they expected an epochal Japanese defeat similar to that which humbled the divisions of Nippon at Taierhchwang a month ago.

The second great Japanese offensive through Shantung province, this time greatly reinforced to wipe out the previous defeat, was checked definitely, they declared.

Japanese army spokesmen were silent.

Chinese sources estimated the weary, outnumbered Japanese army had lost 34,000 men, killed in fighting in recent days about Tancheng and Pihsien on the south and east sides of the salient of which Taierlchwang formed the west side.

A vigorous Chinese army, believed to have been reinforced to 800,000 men for the counter assault in Shantung province, sought to put an end once and for all to this phase of the Japanese offensive which had for its major objective the linking of conquests in North China and the Japanese-occupied areas about Shanghai and Nanking.

Japanese struck back with a ferocious air raid upon Suchow, Chinese base and junction of the east-west Lunghai line and the north-south Tientsin-Pukow railway.

Chinese reported 70 killed and wounded and 200 houses burned and destroyed in the raid.

FLORIDA GIVES PEPPER PLACE IN SENATE RACE

Roosevelt Supporter Is Winner in Race With Bitter Foe of Administration.

(By Associated Press)

Renomination of Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida gave the Roosevelt administration a victory today in the first 1938 primary test of the president's popular support.

Shortly after he easily defeated four other candidates in the Democratic race, Pepper issued a statement calling on the people of his state to join forces with Mr. Roosevelt in restoring "a genuine and permanent prosperity."

The 37-year-old attorney, first chosen in 1936 to succeed the late Sen. Duncan Fletcher, had been endorsed by James Roosevelt, the president's son and secretary.

Wilcox Runs Second.

In second place was Rep. J. Mark Wilcox, who has opposed some administration measures and who called Pepper the president's "rubber stamp."

The vote in 938 of 1,376 precincts: Pepper 152,007; Wilcox 79,408, former Gov. Dave Sholtz 31,401. Two other candidates polled scattering votes.

Allen Walker of Winter Haven led Thomas Swanson of Fort Lauderdale in the Republican senatorial primary.

The Florida Democratic contest was the only one in four state primaries yesterday which had any national aspects.

In Alabama, Sen. Lister Hill was re-nominated without opposition. Another senator—70-year-old Herbert Hitchcock of South Dakota—lost a three-way contest for the Democratic nomination to former Gov. Tom Berry.

J. Chandler Gurney, Republican nominee in 1936, was well ahead in the Republican senatorial primary, leading Gov. Leslie Jensen and two other candidates.

The South Dakota gubernatorial nominations went to Harlan Bushfield, Republican, and Oscar Fosheim, Democrat.

In the Democratic contest for Alabama's gubernatorial nomination, Frank M. Dixon of Birmingham, advocating retention of the state liquor store system, led four other candidates.

A run-off primary appeared necessary, however, because he did not poll a majority. Chauney Sparks of Eufaula and R. J. Goode of Gastonburg were fighting for the second place in the run-off.

Incumbent house members in Alabama, Florida, South Dakota and Indiana who sought renomination were leading on the basis of incomplete returns.

R. Tinkey of Mansfield, a brother, W. B. Stevens of Ashland, and seven grandchildren. He was a member of the Olivesburg M. E. church.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at the home with Rev. Oscar L. Ashburn of the Olivesburg M. E. church, officiating. Burial will be in Olivesburg cemetery.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Movie Employes Become Irritated at Way Their Union Is Being Handled

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—A few critical individuals in the mechanical and unskilled lines of work in the moving picture business in Hollywood are waging a fight against the leadership of George T. Browne, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, and Willie Bioff, his personal representative on the coast. The alliance is very powerful in the movie industry, as it controls, among other operations, the projection of the movies onto the theater screens.

It is undemocratic toward its rank-and-file members, and in one department its initiation fee of $1,000 is believed to be the highest in the country. The newsreel photographers are required to pay $1,000 to join the union and an income tax of 10 per cent of their earnings. Members of the union with whom I am personally acquainted have an understandable reluctance to criticize the leadership or management of the organization or demand changes in rules or practice.

* * *

The alliance has cast covetous glances at the Moving Picture Actors' union, which would yield rich returns to the treasury if the actors were taxed on their income at the same rate. The actors, however, are aware of this interest and have theatened to go to the floor and fight for their autonomy if the alliance should make such a move.

Browne become head of the Chicago Moving Picture Machine Operators' union after the elimination of Thomas E. Maloy, a recketeer who was removed from office by a sawed-off shotgun, locally known as a blast furnace, on Feb. 5, 1935.

Maloy was a prosperous labor leader who had just stopped in at a stable to look over his saddle horses when he was killed. He was driving his own car along the outer drive on the south side when a small sedan came alongside and both barrels of the blast furnace were fired at him.

* * *

Five months later Two-Gun Louie Alterie was removed from the leadership of the Theatrical Janitors' union with similar abrupt emphasis. Mr. Alterie was leaving his duplex studio apartment to go to his office and was about to enter his car when twelve slugs from a blast furnace and a carbine interrupted his labors on behalf of the humble janitors. He died promptly, and the police discovered the guns on a bed in a rented room across the street, where the committee had sat waiting. The men apparently went down a back stairway in leaving, for they were not seen after the putsch.

The Chicago police expressed a belief that both Maloy and Alterie were removed by the same opposition.

Bioff, a former associate of Jack Zuta, "Dago" Lawrence Mangana and other influential leaders in the social and cultural life of Chicago's west side, had been serving as Browne's escort or companion after Browne's accession to the leadership of Maloy's union. Bioff is well known to the Chicago police by reason of several official interviews, and certain members of the theatrical trades in Hollywood have a feeling that his Chicago background makes him unacceptable as the personal representative of Mr. Browne in charge of their affairs.

They may be too fastidious, but that is the way they feel about the matter, and they have been trying to rally the rank and file to stand up in meeting and elect officers out of the working membership.

* * *

Although Mr. Browne is the supreme boss of the alliance, the opposition for the time being is concentrated on Mr. Bioff, with his delegated powers as personal representative. There is a feeling that, somehow, Mr. Bioff is not the type and that a more suitable man easily could be found to administer the affairs of thousands of workers in a very wealthy union.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It's just dawning on us that Hollywood has a new movie clothes-horse—a girl who's all set to take over where Kay Francis leaves off if Kay does leave off when she marries in the fall.

And a happy clothes-horse is Loretta Young, who doesn't like to think of herself as one at all.

"Well," she says, "it just happens I've been playing a number of very rich girls—and presumably smart ones who'd wear smart clothes."

All the same, at any Loretta Young preview, the gasps of the women in the audience are as audible as the occasional masculine titters whenever Loretta pops up in a new outfit. At "Four Men and a Prayer" the other evening the Young wardrobe included a change for every sequence in which Loretta appeared — and some of those outfits seemed mighty funny to some of us. Especially that one that included a hat that was a hat but might have been an inverted cookie-cutter.

* * *

Kay Francis doesn't bother much about clothes off screen, but Loretta has even more than the usual feminine interest.

"That was a smart hat," she laughs. "It wasn't a movie hat, either. I bought it myself at a local store—and I saw one like it, even before the preview, on a woman dancing at La Cronga. And remember how they laughed at that pancake hat Garbo wore in one of her pictures—within a month women everywhere were wearing hats like it!"

Loretta holds that "picture clothes" have to be "different." If they're "different" enough, and and smart, they make talk, and talk makes interest. But she doesn't pretend to be a style leader.

* * *

Many a woman would envy Loretta's shopping habits. Whenever she gets a "clothes" role she can go on a spree. She picks out things she thinks will do—and if the studio approves, she rents out her new wardrobe at so much per day.

One of the amusing scenes in "Four Men" sprang wholly from the Young wardrobe. Rehearsing a scene in which she wore a heavily furred outfit, Loretta told the "butler" who would have taken her coat; "It's a dress."

APRIL RELIEF COSTS DECLINE FOR BUCYRUS

Nearly 100 Off Needy Rolls as Compared to March, City Council Hears.

BUCYRUS—Relief costs in Bucyrus took a slight drop in April, according to the regular monthly report of Safety Director W. G. Beebe. The report showed that 591 persons received relief during April as compared with 697 in March. Costs for April were $2,780.86 as compared with $3,301.81 last month. City council heard the report at the regular meeting Tuesday night.

In submitting his report, Director Beebe announced that the sewing center in operation for several years, has been closed indefinitely. That the county commissioners have declined to furnish yardage for the workers and that the city has been supplying labor to several persons from other communities through the project, was given as the reason for closing the room. "Relief clients of Bucyrus are well supplied with clothing at the present time and most of the workers will be absorbed by the renovation project to be started soon," Director Beebe stated. Thirty women have been employed at the center.

Actual construction on the Bucyrus sewage disposal plant will start Monday, Mayor George T. Dustman, announced. Equipment will be moved into the city Thursday by the contractors ,and the grounds placed in readiness for work.

Plans Street Oiling.

Mayor Dustman also reported that action would be taken by the service department to oil city streets and alleys as soon as there is rain enough to pack the ground.

Upon recommendation by Mayor Dustman, council referred to its ordinance committee a former ordinance regulating the location of junk yards which the previous council body declined to adopt. The establishment of a new junk yard in the south part of the city prompted the action.

Upon recommendation by council, Service Director C. E. McNeal was authorized to declare the Bucyrus city airport closed until action could be completed on the issuing of a new lease. The service director was authorized to enter into a new lease. Closing the port was a safety measure to protect the city against possible claim for damage from accidents.

SETS DATE FOR "CLEAN-UP" WEEK

MILLERSBURG—The week of May 9 has been designated as clean-up week for Millersburg by Mayor Robert Hallam. Anytime after Monday the street commission will haul away rubbish properly placed in a container near the alley or curb. Ashes will not be hauled, however.

The unpaved streets will be conditioned for oiling and possibly oiled next week, it was decided by council The oil is to be put on by the W. C. Lytle company, of Wooster

The load was transferred to a certified operator's truck

To Women who suffer from Piles

It is no longer necessary to suffer the agony caused by piles. Science has at last developed a modern treatment that gives almost immediate relief from soreness, itching, burning and minor bleeding.

ZIRIL Suppositories, first developed for use by doctors who specialize in rectal disorders, have a five-way action that makes them the ideal treatment for quick relief of the horrible discomforts. They relieve pain within a few seconds; check minor bleeding quickly, promote healing of broken tissues, soften and lubricate, making bowel movement easy and less painful. No narcotics or harmful drugs.

ZIRIL is also made in the form of an ointment to relieve the itching, burning and minor bleeding of external or protruding piles.

ZIRIL Suppositories 6 treatments 50 cents, 12 treatments $1.00. ZIRIL Ointment, 50 cents a tube. All druggists.

COUNCIL MEETS

WILLARD — Routine business was conducted at the meeting of city council held last evening. Street Commissioner I. N. Duffy was authorized to purchase materials needed for repairing improved streets.

The clerk, Clarence Hessler, was instructed to send a request to B. and B. railway officials to clear subways of stones and rubbish and to repair the grade crossing at Second street. The mayor's report for April showed fines amounting to $5; fees, $2, and licenses, $7. A total of $13 was collected during the month.

GALION TO ASK WPA FINANCES

Takes Further Steps to Build New City Hall; Reservoir Also Discussed.

GALION—A further step toward a new city building was taken Tuesday night when city council passed a resolution authorizing and directing the public service director, Jay F. Nichols, to make an application to the WPA of the PWA for assistance in constructing a city building for Galion.

Council also spent considerable time following the meeting discussing the proposition of a new reservoir which had been previously outlined by Big Four railroad officials. The reservoir would be used by both the city and the Big Four Railroad company.

A petition was received by council which had been signed by 14 property owners of foot frontage facing South Pierce street, from the Dawsett road to Wood street, asking that council construct a sanitary sewer on the street.

Robert Manning who is constructing a new home on Crew avenue, asked that council extend a water line to the property. This was referred to the water committee of council.

Mayor W. M. King's report for April showed the following collections: fines, $78, costs, $15.40; licenses, $35.

GALION SCHOOL BOARD ACTS ON TEACHER LIST

Accepts Resignation of Coach, Defers Debate on Other Contracts Till May 10.

GALION — After considerable discussion was held regarding the matter of janitor contracts and teacher vacancies, the Galion board of education at its May meeting Tuesday night decided to adjourn for a special meeting next Tuesday morning, May 10.

The board passed a motion that the civil service commission be requested to have an examination for janitors so that the board can have a certified list for the July board meeting. On account of the retirement age there will be one or more vacancies to fill this year in the school janitor service.

The resignation of Robert Corry as physical education director and football and track coach was accepted by the board. The clerk, Harry Sanderlin, was instructed to write a letter of appreciation to Corry for his services in the Galion schools. Corry has accepted a position at Cuyahoga Falls which is a promotion.

Submits Park Plan.

O. J. Dewalt, local janitor, and Heise park caretaker, was present for the meeting and presented a number of plans for improvement at the park. He suggested the necessity of more lights in the park, and various other improvements.

The board, in approving the program of study for Senior high school for next year as presented by Supt. O. E. Hill, will eliminate the study of industrial arts from the Senior high curriculum.

A change in the age for beginning pupils was also made by the board last night. The entrance age for the first grade was set so that the child must be six years of age by Jan. 1. The age prior to this time has been set so that the child must be six before September.

The board also approved bills for the past month amounting to nearly $1,400. It also was decided that liability insurance should be taken out on a truck that several of the janitors have to drive.

GALION—Mr. and Mrs. Claire Cole of North Robinson are the parents of a baby girl born at the Good Samaritan hospital Tuesday afternoon.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

A Farmers Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

May 3.

THE other evening after the heavy thunder shower everything looked so fresh and green in fields and woodland, the ditches by the roadside were moving streams of muddy water; in each little hollow over all the landscape stood tempting shallow ponds, many with grass blades showing well above the surface

The children clapped their hands in glee, yelled, danced and ran about excitedly when I said they might go barefooted. Shoes were pulled off without the laces open, and placed hurriedly in a corner. The sun shone through a tattered cloud and made a faint rainbow in the east, but it was still raining, which meant impatient waiting.

"Daddy, won't you take off your shoes and stockings? It will be so much fun to have you go along," said my little girl.

I sat down on the porch step and pulled my overall legs up. Without further invitation they quickly opened the laces and pulled off my shoes and socks. It still was raining slightly, and as we waited there, barefooted, I saw the little three-year-old with both my shoes. He had filled them full of water from the dripping spouting at the far corner of the porch. "Heavy, Daddy. Water in them," he remarked.

That no more mischief might be done, I started out, the children at my heels. We splashed through every little pool of water near. We launched a boat of bark with a feather for a sail on the largest pond and watched it move across the ripples; then we headed for the road which was a mass of sticky clay. Some little gravels made up wince and limp. It was a glorious sensation to feel the soft, oozy clay about my feet and watch it come up between my toes moulded like eight creeping, crawling worms.

I wish many people of my age could know the joy of going barefoot with three children.

JURORS HEAR CIVIL SERVICE WORKERS TALK

Steady Stream of Witnesses Enters Grand Jury Room as Duffy Speeds Probe.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—A steady stream of state civil service employes continued to pour into a special grand jury room today as assistant attorneys general gave out information that already more than 12 state officials and persons close to Governor Davey have been involved in collection of campaign contributions.

Will P. Stephenson, assistant attorney general in charge of the probe, said that enough additional witnesses to keep the investigation going through Friday will be called today. He said no department heads would be brought before the grand jury until next week.

Call Liquor Employes.

Meanwhile, in Cincinnati, subpoenas for more than 100 liquor store employes were being served as the regular Hamilton county grand jury began an investigation of reported campaign collections in that area.

Prosecutor Dudley M. Outcalt said that a list of 56 civil service employes had been furnished him, but he demanded also a list of provisional employes declaring that these persons are automatically on the classified list and any solicitation from them is a violation of law.

Hamilton county deputies reported they could not find Frank C. Schroer, district supervisor of liquor stores, but his assistant, Bert Heidemann, was called to testify. He promised to furnish the provisional list Outcalt required.

Trouble was anticipated at the beginning of the Cincinnati investigation when Miss Louis M. Jones, secretary to Schroer, told deputies her superior had telephoned from Columbus ordering her to withhold a list of employes.

The grand jury immediately ordered the list prepared and then without waiting for it to be completed, called the secretary before the investigators. The list was furnished later.

Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy has said he believed at least three weeks would be required to complete the inquiry being conducted here.

Fish Don't Bite So Roosevelt's Boat Heads East

CHARLESTON, S. C.—(INS)—President Roosevelt's Carribean fishing party dropped anchor early this morning off Sombrero Island, northeast of Puerto Rico, hopeful the day's luck would be better than that which has folfolowed them thus far.

After a rather disappointing day spent in Samana Bay, San Domingo, the president recalled recent assurances of Governor Blanton Winship that the fish were running well off Puerto Rico and ordered the cruiser Philadelphia to proceed eastward to Sombrero Island.

Avoiding the beaten lanes, up to last night only one freighter has been sighted by the presidential party. According to radioed word from the Philadelphia, Mr. Roosevelt was enjoying his temporary isolation to the utmost.

Lois MacKellar, librarian at the Publis Library, got quite a shock the other day to discover, upon looking at a map of 1853, that she lives in a graveyard! The map shows the Methodist cemetery at the corner of South Mulberry and West First street that long since has been turned into a residential section. Hanging in the main hall of the library, the may has inspired a great deal of comment from citizens who stopped to see how Mansfield used to look nearly 100 years ago. The map is one of five given to the library by Mrs. C. S. Williams, 24 Stewart avenue.

Probate court clerks who issue marriage licenses at the courthouse often meet amusing situations, and they are chuckling over the young man who came in alone to apply for a license and couldn't remember how to spell his prospective bride's name. After some pondering over the spelling, he finally dismissed it with, "What difference does it make so long as I love her?" And the clerks agreed with him, but they made him bring in his fiancee before issuing the license.

FAMILY OF 10 ROUTED BY FIRE

Farm House South of Shelby Ignited as Kerosene Lamp Overturns, Destroyed.

SHELBY—Fire caused by a kerosene lamp early today destroyed the farm home of Lester Jewett, one and a half miles southeast of here on the Mansfield-Shelby road, causing damage estimated at $1,500.

The family of 10, including Jewett, his wife, and eight children, ranging in ages from four to 16 years, were asleep in bedrooms on the first and second floors when the fire broke out at 1 a. m.

Seven of the children, sleeping in bedrooms on the second floor, were taken out of the burning house by a 16-year-old daughter, Della, who was sleeping on the first floor with her parents. Jewett, partially blind, was escorted to safety by his wife.

The fire started about 1 a. m. in the first floor bedroom when Jewett knocked over a lighted lamp as he reached for some medicine on a table located near the bed, Shelby firemen said. The burning lamp ignited the table and rug.

An attempt was made by the family to call the Shelby fire department but the flames destroyed telephone wires. The department was then summoned by neighbors, but when firemen arrived the house had burned to the ground.

Everything was lost but a few pieces of clothing and a washing machine stored in a shed near the house.

CHINESE SMASH THROUGH JAP LINES, PUSH ADVANCE 12 MILES

(By Associated Press)

SHANGHAI—A general Chinese offensive all along the south Shantung front was declared by the Chinese command to have smashed through the center of the Japanese lines at Taierhchwang today and to have advanced 12 miles.

Chinese advance guards fought forward five miles in a night battle, adding these gains in the first assault yesterday.

The field commanders of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek declared the tide of war was turning in their favor.

His high command, hopefully awaiting bulletins from the front, said they expected an epochal Japanese defeat similar to that which humbled the divisions of Nippon at Taierhchwang a month ago.

The second great Japanese offensive through Shantung province, this time greatly reinforced to wipe out the previous defeat, was checked definitely, they declared.

Japanese army spokesmen were silent.

Chinese sources estimated the weary, outnumbered Japanese army had lost 34,000 men, killed in fighting in recent days about Tancheng and Pihsien on the south and east sides of the salient of which Taierlchwang formed the west side.

A vigorous Chinese army, believed to have been reinforced to 800,000 men for the counter assault in Shantung province, sought to put an end once and for all to this phase of the Japanese offensive which had for its major objective the linking of conquests in North China and the Japanese-occupied areas about Shanghai and Nanking.

Japanese struck back with a ferocious air raid upon Suchow, Chinese base and junction of the east-west Lunghai line and the north-south Tientsin-Pukow railway.

Chinese reported 70 killed and wounded and 200 houses burned and destroyed in the raid.

FLORIDA GIVES PEPPER PLACE IN SENATE RACE

Roosevelt Supporter Is Winner in Race With Bitter Foe of Administration.

(By Associated Press)

Renomination of Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida gave the Roosevelt administration a victory today in the first 1938 primary test of the president's popular support.

Shortly after he easily defeated four other candidates in the Democratic race, Pepper issued a statement calling on the people of his state to join forces with Mr. Roosevelt in restoring "a genuine and permanent prosperity."

The 37-year-old attorney, first chosen in 1936 to succeed the late Sen. Duncan Fletcher, had been endorsed by James Roosevelt, the president's son and secretary.

Wilcox Runs Second.

In second place was Rep. J. Mark Wilcox, who has opposed some administration measures and who called Pepper the president's "rubber stamp."

The vote in 938 of 1,376 precincts: Pepper 152,007; Wilcox 79,408, former Gov. Dave Sholtz 31,401. Two other candidates polled scattering votes.

Allen Walker of Winter Haven led Thomas Swanson of Fort Lauderdale in the Republican senatorial primary.

The Florida Democratic contest was the only one in four state primaries yesterday which had any national aspects.

In Alabama, Sen. Lister Hill was re-nominated without opposition. Another senator—70-year-old Herbert Hitchcock of South Dakota—lost a three-way contest for the Democratic nomination to former Gov. Tom Berry.

J. Chandler Gurney, Republican nominee in 1936, was well ahead in the Republican senatorial primary, leading Gov. Leslie Jensen and two other candidates.

The South Dakota gubernatorial nominations went to Harlan Bushfield, Republican, and Oscar Fosheim, Democrat.

In the Democratic contest for Alabama's gubernatorial nomination, Frank M. Dixon of Birmingham, advocating retention of the state liquor store system, led four other candidates.

A run-off primary appeared necessary, however, because he did not poll a majority. Chauney Sparks of Eufaula and R. J. Goode of Gastonburg were fighting for the second place in the run-off.

Incumbent house members in Alabama, Florida, South Dakota and Indiana who sought renomination were leading on the basis of incomplete returns.

STRICKEN AT 79

Mrs. Eva Roth, Native of City, Dies in Hospital.

Mrs. Eva R. Poth, 79, of 26 Fair street, died Tuesday afternoon in the General hospital after a brief illness. Born in Mansfield, April 18, 1859, Mrs. Poth spent her entire life here. She was a member of the St. John's Evangelical church and Ladies' Aid society.

Mrs. Poth and her husband, Henry sr., who survives, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary April 13. Other survivors are three sons, Henry, jr., and Albert of Mansfield and Ray of La Porte, Ind.; two daughters, Mrs. D. A. Taylor and Mrs. Henry Edwald, jr., of Mansfield, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 p. m. Friday with Rev. Paul Saleste, pastor of the St. John's church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

IRA E. STEVENS TAKEN BY DEATH

Ira E. Stevens, 56, died at his Weller township home Tuesday following a lingering illness. Mr. Stevens was born Oct. 17, 1881, in Hayesville, but had spent most of his life in Richland county.

Surviving are his wife, Edith C.; three daughters, Mrs. Paul Esbenshade and Mrs. Russell Maxwell of Olivesburg, and Miss Erma Stevens of Weller township; two sons, Dale and Robert Stevens of Mansfield; a sister, Mrs. C. R. Tinkey of Mansfield, a brother, W. B. Stevens of Ashland, and seven grandchildren. He was a member of the Olivesburg M. E. church.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at the home with Rev. Oscar L. Ashburn of the Olivesburg M. E. church, officiating. Burial will be in Olivesburg cemetery.

FAIR ENOUGH!

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—A few critical individuals in the mechanical and unskilled lines of work in the moving picture business in Hollywood are waging a fight against the leadership of George T. Browne, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, and Willie Bioff, his personal representative on the coast. The alliance is very powerful in the movie industry, as it controls, among other operations, the projection of the movies onto the theater screens.

It is undemocratic toward its rank-and-file members, and in one department its initiation fee of $1,000 is believed to be the highest in the country. The newsreel photographers are required to pay $1,000 to join the union and an income tax of 10 per cent of their earnings. Members of the union with whom I am personally acquainted have an understandable reluctance to criticize the leadership or management of the organization or demand changes in rules or practice.

* * *

The alliance has cast covetous glances at the Moving Picture Actors' union, which would yield rich returns to the treasury if the actors were taxed on their income at the same rate. The actors, however, are aware of this interest and have theatened to go to the floor and fight for their autonomy if the alliance should make such a move.

Browne become head of the Chicago Moving Picture Machine Operators' union after the elimination of Thomas E. Maloy, a recketeer who was removed from office by a sawed-off shotgun, locally known as a blast furnace, on Feb. 5, 1935.

Maloy was a prosperous labor leader who had just stopped in at a stable to look over his saddle horses when he was killed. He was driving his own car along the outer drive on the south side when a small sedan came alongside and both barrels of the blast furnace were fired at him.

* * *

Five months later Two-Gun Louie Alterie was removed from the leadership of the Theatrical Janitors' union with similar abrupt emphasis. Mr. Alterie was leaving his duplex studio apartment to go to his office and was about to enter his car when twelve slugs from a blast furnace and a carbine interrupted his labors on behalf of the humble janitors. He died promptly, and the police discovered the guns on a bed in a rented room across the street, where the committee had sat waiting. The men apparently went down a back stairway in leaving, for they were not seen after the putsch.

The Chicago police expressed a belief that both Maloy and Alterie were removed by the same opposition.

Bioff, a former associate of Jack Zuta, "Dago" Lawrence Mangana and other influential leaders in the social and cultural life of Chicago's west side, had been serving as Browne's escort or companion after Browne's accession to the leadership of Maloy's union. Bioff is well known to the Chicago police by reason of several official interviews, and certain members of the theatrical trades in Hollywood have a feeling that his Chicago background makes him unacceptable as the personal representative of Mr. Browne in charge of their affairs.

They may be too fastidious, but that is the way they feel about the matter, and they have been trying to rally the rank and file to stand up in meeting and elect officers out of the working membership.

* * *

Although Mr. Browne is the supreme boss of the alliance, the opposition for the time being is concentrated on Mr. Bioff, with his delegated powers as personal representative. There is a feeling that, somehow, Mr. Bioff is not the type and that a more suitable man easily could be found to administer the affairs of thousands of workers in a very wealthy union.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It's just dawning on us that Hollywood has a new movie clothes-horse—a girl who's all set to take over where Kay Francis leaves off if Kay does leave off when she marries in the fall.

And a happy clothes-horse is Loretta Young, who doesn't like to think of herself as one at all.

"Well," she says, "it just happens I've been playing a number of very rich girls—and presumably smart ones who'd wear smart clothes."

All the same, at any Loretta Young preview, the gasps of the women in the audience are as audible as the occasional masculine titters whenever Loretta pops up in a new outfit. At "Four Men and a Prayer" the other evening the Young wardrobe included a change for every sequence in which Loretta appeared — and some of those outfits seemed mighty funny to some of us. Especially that one that included a hat that was a hat but might have been an inverted cookie-cutter.

* * *

Kay Francis doesn't bother much about clothes off screen, but Loretta has even more than the usual feminine interest.

"That was a smart hat," she laughs. "It wasn't a movie hat, either. I bought it myself at a local store—and I saw one like it, even before the preview, on a woman dancing at La Cronga. And remember how they laughed at that pancake hat Garbo wore in one of her pictures—within a month women everywhere were wearing hats like it!"

Loretta holds that "picture clothes" have to be "different." If they're "different" enough, and and smart, they make talk, and talk makes interest. But she doesn't pretend to be a style leader.

* * *

Many a woman would envy Loretta's shopping habits. Whenever she gets a "clothes" role she can go on a spree. She picks out things she thinks will do—and if the studio approves, she rents out her new wardrobe at so much per day.

One of the amusing scenes in "Four Men" sprang wholly from the Young wardrobe. Rehearsing a scene in which she wore a heavily furred outfit, Loretta told the "butler" who would have taken her coat; "It's a dress."

Bucs May Place Team Here, Report

Reports that the Pittsburgh Pirates will operate the Mansfield club in the Ohio State league this year could not be verified in the city today.

Frank A. Voegele, Mansfield business man, who acted as president of the club last year, said today that he had not been in conference with any representative of the Pirates, as reported, and knows nothing about the rumor that the National league club will come to Mansfield.

The Tiffin Advertiser-Tribune yesterday said that President Harry Smith and Bill Hinchman, Pittsburgh representative, were in Mansfield yesterday seeking to coax the 1937 pennant-winning city back into the fold. "Pittsburgh is willing to put a team in there at the terms turned down by the dough-heavy Boston Red Sox," the story stated.

Durant's team pries off the lid with the Federal Glass club in Columbus Sunday, while Lancaster performs at Newark, Logan at Mt. Vernon and Coshocton at Zanesville.

Seeks Infielder.

Durant is particularly worried about the infield, which has not come up to his expectations as yet He is still searching for a second baseman.

The rest of the departments are up to standard, Durant believes. Pitchers he will have available Sunday are Lefty Deeds, Aid Geiger and Howard Patterson.

Deeds and Geiger are widely-known in semi-pro circles in these parts, and Patterson is the former Ontario high school cage star Patterson showed considerable promise in the practice game played with the Rex Billiards last Sunday.

It is likely that the Legionnaires will face Les Fishbaugh, who formerly hurled for the Columbus Red Birds.

Durant is not acquainted with the strength of the clubs in the circuit, but he figures that the Federal Glass team is one of the strongest in the league.

The Legion manager said today that if his club can get by the Glassmen Sunday, the prospects for the season will be encouraging. If the Legionnaires fail to show any class Sunday, he said he expects to add players until they do Opens Here May 22.

The Mansfield team will play its first two games on the road The Durant team goes to Coshocton a week from Sunday, and makes its first home appearance with Logan May 22. The Legionnaires are hosts to Mt Vernon, Zanesville and Lancaster on the next three Sundays

The first round of the split championship semi-pro race closes Sunday, July 31

Managers of the rival teams in the league are Arthur Thomas, Lancaster, Earl Yockey, Newark; Robert Welch, Logan Charles Dunbar, Columbus Garney Banahan, Coshocton, Ed Lucas, Mt Vernon, and Ned Crowder, Zanesville

HAYDEN SHUPE SENT TO OSWEGO, N. Y., CLUB

Hayden Shupe right handed pitcher who hurled semi-pro ball after drawing his release from the Mansfield Red Sox early last year has been shipped to Oswego N Y by the Springfield club of the Mid-Atlantic league, according to an Associated Press dispatch today.

Sande Has Another Contender in Chief

Stagehand's Running Mate Turns In Record Equalling Performance In Pre-Derby Race.

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—The stage is all set, the principal actors selected and only a minor role or two remains to be filled for the 64th matinee performance of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs Saturday.

It'll be a small cast, probably not more than a dozen, but it'll be one studded with stars seeking to win America's most famous horse race Then too there is always the possibility that some minor actor will steal the show.

Eleven Are Definite.

Eleven horses are considered definite starters and there is a possibility that another one or two may be added. If less than 12 face the barrier it'll be the smallest field since Twenty Grand hung up the derby record of 2:01 4-5 in 1931.

Firmly entrenched as the public choice for the $50,000 show over a mile and a quarter is the combination of Stagehand and The Chief, owned by Maxwell Howard of Dayton, O., and trained by Earl Sande.

To The Chief, it'll be something new. Until yesterday's trial stakes he was considered just a good running mate for Stagehand. But he turned in a track record equalling performance that whipped Herbert M Woolf's Lawrin by a nose and left Stagehand five lengths in his wake The time for the mile was 1.35 4-5 after The Chief and Lawrin had reeled off the first six furlongs in the almost unbelievable time of 1:10 3-5.

The Chief was showing no signs of weakening at the end but Stagehand was tired.

Lawrin was the only other leading derby contender in the field but his race, run under the handicap of wearing four bar plates to protect tender feet, indicated a new derby record within the realm of possibility.

No Lack of Speed.

There is no lack of speed and stamina among the other ranking candidates. Warren Wright's Bull Lea and Hal Price Headley's Menow tangled in a mile and an eighth stake at Keeneland last week with the latter setting the pace and the former the track record

Others regarded as definite threats are Fighting Fox, Dauber and Can't Wait Expected to complete the field are Elooto, Co-Sport and Mountain Ridge.

Who Said Ken Can't Hit? Rookie Puts Two Over Wall

Keltner Pounds Home Six Runs as Tribe Opens Trip With 10-9 Triumph.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Oscar Vitt, the new pilot of the Cleveland Indians, today tempted the baseball fates

At the outset of the season Vitt announced that he would work Johnny Allen, Bob Feller, Mel Harder and Earl Whitehill in regular turn as his starting pitchers. Throughout the first two weeks Vitt followed that plan rigorously and the Indians hopped into first place in the American league standing.

Lasts Four Innings.

As the Tribe opened a 10-game eastern tour here yesterday, Vitt picked out a fifth starting hurler when he sent Al Milnar, burly southpaw to the hill. Cleveland won the contest 10 to 9, but Milnar was in the showers long before the last out had been made.

Milnar, who showed to an advantage in a relief role Sunday, was nicked for nine hits in the four rounds he worked against the Senators. He was followed to the hill by Joe Heving, Willis Hudlin and Denny Galehouse. Heving received credit for the triumph.

Wesley Ferrell opposed Milnar at the start of the contest, but fared poorly at the hands of his ex-teammates. He was driven from the hill after one man had been retired in the fifth. Pete Appleton finished.

The contest was a wild slugging bee from start to finish and although the Indians were outhit 15 to 13, their safeties were more potent.

The hero of the Indians' triumph was Ken Keltner, rookie third baseman. Keltner secured three hits in five trips to the plate. Two of Keltner's hits were home runs. His first circuit drive came in the second with one man on; and his other in the fifth with two mates on base In the ninth he drove in his sixth run of the game with a single.

Add Five In Fifth.

The Indians scored twice in the second, once in the third and then gave Heving a good lead by plating five runs in the fifth. The final two counters came in the ninth.

Bob Feller, originally scheduled to pitch yesterday, was to draw the Indians' mound assignment today with Emil Leonard opposing him.

Pity Poor Football Players These Days

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

PACKING 16 pounds of fall game equipment, Mansfield high school athletes and their opponents deserved the sympathy of spectators in the football melee with the alumni on torrid Monday. The weight is no guess, either, "Pop" Elias put a set on the scales to make sure... Noticed in Monday's big parade where the fair board put in a "plug" for the harness races on which a lot of the success of the early fair depends.

Included among the newer inmates at the reformatory are Tommy Hudson and Sammy Paradise, a couple of nifty pugilists in their day. . . . What's this we hear about Dr. D. M. Leuthner sinking nine one-putters on Canterbury's 18? . . . "Out of bounds" markers are being placed around the road down No. 9 at Possum Run.

It is now doubtful whether Ashland high will be able to play its grid schedule under lights next fall due to the inability to reach an agreement with college officials on the rental of the "hilltop" field. Mansfield was kicked out of the N. C. O conference because it would not play after dark, you know. . . .

WHOSE PICTURE APPEARS ON THE $1.00 BILL?

"Let's see now. Is it Lincoln's? Is it Washington's? Or could it be Adams'?"

And so you're off on a merry memory test when you start playing LabelGrams, the game that has the whole town going. Every bottle of Leisy's carries a question and answer on perforated tabs on the underside of the label.

The fellows play LabelGrams around the lunch table. The ladies play it at home when the bridge session lags. Fun! You said it. And while playing it, you'll also enjoy that grandest of beers . . . slowly brewed, gently aged Leisy's!

'Gas House Gang' Showing New Life

McGee Wins In First Start to Encourage Hopes Dashed by Sale of Dean to Cubs.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer.

THE OLD GAS HOUSE GANG ain't what it used to be. But with a flock of new Gas Housers beginning to show promise, the St. Louis Cardinals may have their usual piece to say about the National league pennant race.

Latest to encourage the fans' hope that St. Louis may cause trouble in the National league pennant chase are Lon Warneke, veteran right hander, and the new battery of Bill McGee and Herb Bremer.

Warneke has won his last two starts. McGee, getting his first trial as a starting pitcher, probably clinched a job as a ball player as well as jug player in Pepper Martin's band when he limited the Boston Bees to six hits and fanned six to outpoint the able Lou Fette, 3 to 2. Bremer, who may fill the Cards' demand for a regular catcher, provided the first two runs with a homer and Don Gutteridge made the third the same way.

Diz Quits Again.

Meanwhile Dizzy Dean, former Card now pitching for the Cubs, who retired from a game last week with a sore pitching arm, worked his flipper for seven good innings against the Phillies and got credit for Chicago's 5-2 victory. Diz was hit hard and looked tired when he turned over the job to Charley Root. Young Joe Marty produced a homer to send Chicago into the lead and old Gabby Hartnett clinched the decision with another.

The victory put the Cubs closer to the top as Cincinnati's Reds brought the New York Giants' 11-game winning streak to an undignified end by licking the league leaders 10 to 2. While Paul Derringer pitched eight-hit ball, the Reds collected six runs and the game in the fifth when Hal Schumacher found his old-time jinx over Cincinnati no longer was effective.

Brooklyn's star rookie, Forrest Pressnell, handed the Pittsburgh Pirates their fifth straight defeat as the Dodgers manufactured a sixrun seventh inning to win 7-2.

The American league standings were shuffled as Philadelphia's Athletics, whose status closely resembles that of the Cards hopped from eighth to sixth place and both the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees slid past Washington.

With Buck Ross hurling five-hit ball and getting the benefit of a six-run outburst in the third, the A's trimmed the Chicago White Sox 7 to 2. Cleveland's league leaders outlasted the Senators, 10 to 9 as Ken Keltner, third sacker, clouted two homers and a single to drive in six runs.

50 Years Of U. S. Golf

By GARDNER SOULE

THE FIRST golf balls were made of leather stuffed with feathers. Before 1900, however, gutta-percha balls replaced the original pellets. After 1900 balls with rubber cores were introduced. This broadened the appeal of golf, for with the new ball the average player could drive with the best of them.

BUSHNELL SCHOOL WINS QUADRANGULAR MEET

Bushnell won the quadrangular grade school track meet at Stadium field yesterday with 23 points. Western and Prospect finished in a tie for second place with 14 points, and Brinkerhoff trailed with three. Brooks of Bushnell carried off the individual score honors with firsts in the 50-yard dash, pole vault and broad jump.

60-yard low hurdles—Dowell, P., won; Shafer; W., 2; Betz, P., 3. Time: 9.2s.

50-yard dash—Brooks, B., won; Menke, Bu., and Johns, Bu., tied for second. Time: 7s.

Shot put—Shafer, W., won; Yontz, W., 2; Leffler, Bu., 3. Distance: 24ft 3in.

Pole vault—Brooks, bu., won; Bottemley, Bu., 2; Back, Bu., 3. Height: 7ft 3in.

Broad jump—Brooks, Bu., won; Dowell P., 2; Menke, Bu., 3. Distance: 14ft 1in.

440-yard relay—Won by Prospect (Dowell, Huntsman, Clay and Betz); Western, 2; Bushnell, 3. Time: 1m, 25s.

Change to Milner Gets Boos For Os'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Bob Feller is slated to toe the rubber for the Cleveland Indians in today's game with the Washington Senators. Emil (Dutch) Leonard, former National league knuckle ball ace, will oppose him.

Manager Oscar Vitt of Cleveland was greeted with a chorus of boos yesterday when Feller did not go to the mound. Al Milnar's appearance set off a noisy demonstration by fans because newspaper had announced Feller would hurl. Vitt decided en route to Washington to give the young Iowan another day's rest.

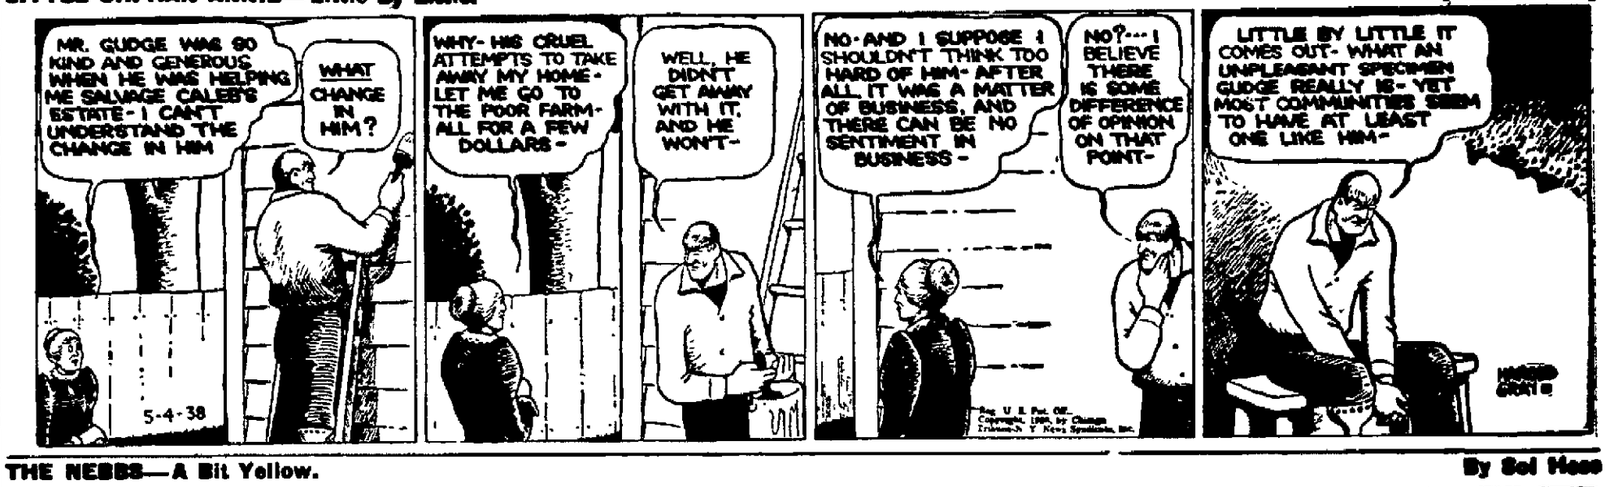
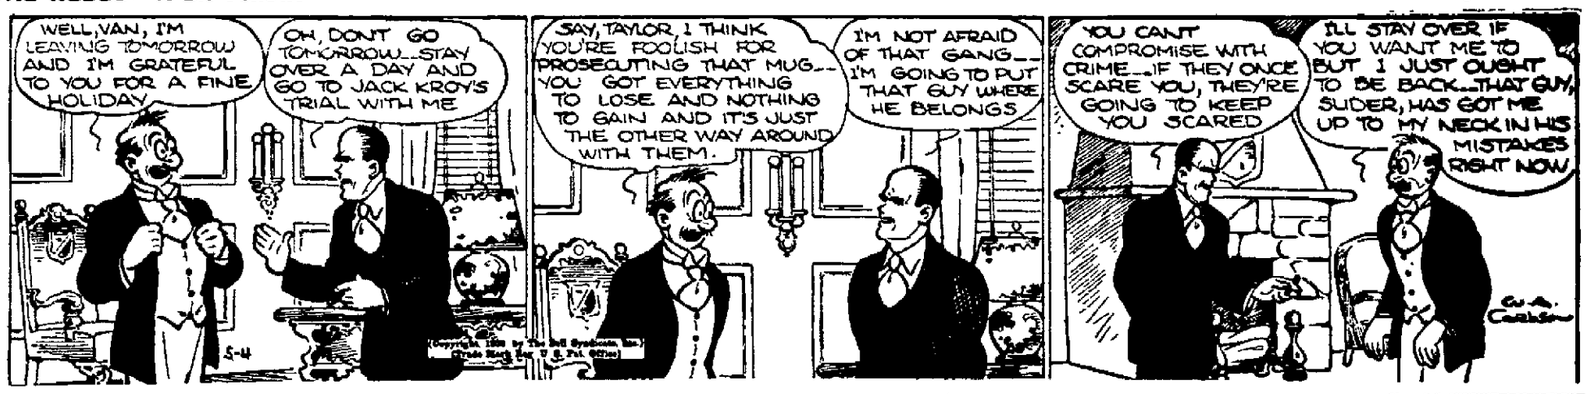
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE— Little By Little. By Harold Gray



MR. GUDGE WAS SO KIND AND GENEROUS WHEN HE WAS HELPING ME SALVAGE CALEB'S ESTATE - I CAN'T UNDERSTAND THE CHANGE IN HIM
WHAT CHANGE IN HIM?
5-4-38
WHY- HIS CRUEL ATTEMPTS TO TAKE AWAY MY HOME - LET ME GO TO THE POOR FARM - ALL FOR A FEW DOLLARS -
WELL, HE DIDN'T GET AWAY WITH IT, AND HE WON'T-
NO - AND I SUPPOSE I SHOULDN'T THINK TOO HARD OF HIM - AFTER ALL, IT WAS A MATTER OF BUSINESS, AND THERE CAN BE NO SENTIMENT IN BUSINESS -
NO?... I BELIEVE THERE IS SOME DIFFERENCE OF OPINION ON THAT POINT-
LITTLE BY LITTLE IT COMES OUT - WHAT AN UNPLEASANT SPECIMEN GUDGE REALLY IS - YET MOST COMMUNITIES SEEM TO HAVE AT LEAST ONE LIKE HIM -

THE NEBBS— A Bit Yellow. By Sol Hess



WELL, VAN, I'M LEAVING TOMORROW AND I'M GRATEFUL TO YOU FOR A FINE HOLIDAY

STRIDE BROKEN AS DEMAND FOR STOCKS FADES

Moderate Losses, Advances Mingle Throughout List Near Second Hour.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Demand for stocks faded today and the market's rallying stride was broken.

Near the second hour moderate losses and gains were mingled throughout the list.

United States Steel's move to market next month $100,000,000 of debentures to raise funds for its plant improvement program seemed to hearten the bond market.

Trade news offered but scant indications of industrial improvement.

The "Iron Age" in its weekly review said "no reversal of the downward trend in pig iron or steel ingot production is yet in sight."

Slackening motor production after the earlier spring gains, trade authorities noted, deprived metal and other suppliers of considerable support.

The worst year-to-year decline of the recession was shown in electric power output figures. Power consumption last week was off 11.6 per cent compared with 1937 against a year-to-year loss of 10.8 the preceding week.

OHIO FUEL ASKS 74-CENT RATE

9-Cent Increase Sought From Small Users; Rate Similar to One Before Settlement.

5,000-foot user, 60½ cents for the 7,000 foot consumer and 57½ cents for the 10,000 foot consumer.

Lower than any of these proposals is the plan of the council committee, headed by Russell D. Porch as chairman, and on which Lester D. Hunter and Arthur L. Croak are members

The committee plan calls for a rate of 60 cents a thousand for the 5,000-foot user; 57 cents a thousand for the 7,000-foot user and 55 cents a thousand for the 10,000-foot user.

Mead, commenting on the company's proposal said, "Our situation is just as Mr. Tharp (E. M. Tharp, general manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas company) said yesterday. We have been losing money on the present Mansfield rate. Our costs, like all other costs, have gone up."

Tharp yesterday characterized the present Mansfield rate as an "extreme compromise" and asserted emphatically that the company would seek an increase.

Councilman Porch said he would try to bring both the committee's proposal and that of the company before a meeting of council before the committee undertakes to negotiate further with the company. He said he did not expect such a meeting could be held before next week

Tiffin Accepts Similar Rate.

The city of Tiffin Monday accepted rate ordinance identical with the company's Mansfield proposal for the first four years of a five-year period, which specified that the city would be served only natural gas, mixed fuel being barred.

For the fifth year of the contract, however, the rate goes up, so that the 5,000-foot consumer would pay a rate of 77 cents.

The Tiffin contract replaces an ordinance approved four years ago, for a five-year period, with a one-year "sandbag" on the end. This did not go into effect, however, because the new contract was approved before the "sandbag" went into effect.

COUNCIL OKAYS WATER BONDS

Agrees by 8-1 Vote to Finance Woodland Improvement by Mortgaging Waterworks.

ing in behalf of the WPA workers, told council that they had been "just a little lax" in securing WPA projects for Mansfield.

"These people don't want charity—they want work," he said.

He asked council to give consideration to some WPA projects that had been held up because of the lack of funds and said that "something must be done."

The ordinance was approved after council two weeks ago had voted 5 to 3 against emergency passage of a similar measure.

The measure was taken to Squire, Sanders and Dempsey, Cleveland bond attorneys, following a debate over a franchise clause incorporated in the measure that gives the bondholders the right to operate the waterworks in case the city defaults. Several councilmen had contended that this was not necessary in order to make the bonds salable.

The measure passed last night, however, carried the franchise and several minor additions that City Solicitor Marion D. Ward explained would make the bonds more attractive to purchasers.

The major change set up a hydrant rental of $35 for each of the city's 500 fire plugs, to be paid into the water department in case of foreclosure Another clause specifies that in the event the city defaults, the present water rates shall be immediately raised 10 per cent.

The ordinance calls for the issuance of $64,000 in waterworks mortgage revenue bonds to be retured over an eight-year period.

The balance of $11,000 to meet the cost of the project was appropriated from the unappropriated waterworks fund several weeks ago.

The program which is designed to bolster the water pressure in the Woodland area, calls for the construction of a tank tower and booster pumps at the reservoir and a new high capacity main to be laid on Cook road and Lexington avenue, that will increase the pressure in the mercantile district.

year. This includes the revamping of the system made necessary by the removal of circuits from utility poles which are being eliminated by the telephone and electric companies.

The $6,000 for park improvements is the city's share of a proposed WPA project to renovate all city parks. The park program, which has been approved by WPA district offices, calls for the expenditure of $25,000.

The project, designed to give employment to 80 men for four months, calls for the beautification program that will include the building of walks and ramps through the parks, tearing down old buildings and beautifying unsightly spots, and installing equipment to make the parks practical outdoor recreation centers.

ENROLLMENT TO BREAK RECORD

800 Students Are Expected to Register at Shelby High School Next Fall.

SHELBY—Nearly 800 students, the largest enrollment in the history of Shelby high school, will be registered next fall in the six-year high school, C. G. Keck, superintendent of the Shelby schools, announced today. Last year approximately 500 students enrolled.

Keck stated that the increase this fall would be due partly to the enrollment of 250 rural students from the Shelby school district from Jackson, Sharon and Plymouth townships.

Cairns, Hartman, Clark and Bunker Hill schools in Jackson township will close this fall and their students will be transported in buses to Shelby, Keck said. The seventh and eighth grades at Central grade school will also be removed to the high school, making the six-year school.

To provide for the increased enrollment, the $80,000 addition approved by the voters at the election in November, is now under construction at the northwest corner of the present building. Work is expected to be completed on the addition for the fall school term.

Former Mansfielder Becomes 'Flying Pastor' as He Directs Synod Merger

Dr. Bell Travels Between Toledo and Conventions of Church In West.

His duties on the executive board of the United Lutheran Church in America has converted Dr. Alvin E. Bell, former Mansfielder, into a "flying pastor."

As chairman of the committee on constituent synods of the executive board of the church, Dr. Bell has found it necessary to commute by air between his own pulpit in Toledo and church conventions in the western states where he is directing the merger of four synods into one body.

Since undertaking the job, Dr Bell has not missed a Sunday service in his own church in Toledo. Following the morning sermon, he boards a transport plane flying to Kansas, Nebraska or Iowa. On the following Thursdays, he flies home to continue his local work.

Next week, he will be in Cedar Rapids, Ia., attending the convention there. The following week will find him in Hastings, Neb., and the last week of this month he will be in Fremont, Neb.

In addition to his pastoral duties and his work on the synod executive board, Dr. Bell prepares weekly interpretations of the International Sunday School lesson which is syndicated throughout the country. The lessons are a weekly feature in The News-Journal.

Born in 1882 on a farm on the Park avenue west road, Dr. Bell attended a country school and Mansfield high school. He left Mansfield more than 30 years ago when he started his ministerial career.

Frequently he returns to Mansfield to visit his mother, Mrs. Alice Bell of West Fourth street road, who recently celebrated her 80th birthday anniversary. He has three brothers in this vicinity, Harry Bell who resides with his mother, James H. Bell of Park avenue west, and William F. Bell of West Fourth street road.

Dr. Alvin E. Bell, former Mansfielder who writes a weekly Sunday School lesson for The News-Journal, is shown about to take off from Toledo airport on one of his frequent air trips that have won him the title "Flying Pastor."

Dr. Bell has been located in Toledo since 1913. Before that, he was pastor of a church in Bryan.

WILLARD MUSIC CLUB PRESENTS PROGRAM AT CRESTLINE MEETING

CRESTLINE—The Willard Music Study club, directed by Mrs. John Wilson, presented the program at the "Guest Night" meeting of the Crestline Choral club Monday evening. Eighty-five were in attendance for the program presented in the school auditorium.

Miss Kathryn McKean, president of the local club, welcomed the Willard group members and guests and then the meeting was taken over by Mrs. R. B Smith, director of the Crestline club, who in turn introduced the Willard club.

The program consisted of a cantata, "The Garden of Flowers," and several musical selections.

Following the program, the group was served a lunch buffet style in the school cafeteria. Spring flowers decorated the table and Mrs. I. G. Foster and Mrs. L A. Pruitt poured. Guests from out-of-town were from Galion, Shelby and Chicago

The Crestline club was to have had an exchange program with the Willard club, but the date of April 26 had to be cancelled because of illness in the home of the director, Mrs. Smith The Crestline club expects to put on a program for the Willard club in early fall.

ROME-BERLIN AXIS BENDING

Fascists in London Say Duce Cools Toward Nazis, Believe Alliance Past Zenith.

can's displeasure because Hitler did not respond to the urging of Mussolini to ask for an audience with Pope Pius.

Italians said that Mussolini intended to hold his position at the Brenner Pass and on the Adriatic sea against any German expansion plans.

Most Fascist political quarters, according to United Press advices, also believe that Mussolini is not prepared to follow Hitler in any adventure which might put Italy against Great Britain and France.

Since the German annexation of Austria, Mussolini has been working toward friendship with Britain and France without loosening his ties with Germany. If possible he would like to take up a middle position between Britain and Germany. He could not do this if he concluded a military alliance with Germany.

Duce and Fuehrer Confer In Palace.

ROME—(UP)—Premier Benito Mussolini and his guest, Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, put their "Rome-Berlin axis" of co-operation to the test today in a conference at Mussolini's Venice palace.

It was the first meeting of the Nazi and Fascist leaders since Mussolini's visit to Germany last September.

Since then Germany has absorbed Austria and shown an acute "protective" interest in the German minority in Czechoslovakia. Italy has concluded a friendship treaty with Great Britain and is negotiating one with France.

These were the principal subjects for talk today and it seemed certain that what was said at the Venice palace conference would indicate the entire future trend of the "axis."

Hitler had been given a Roman triumph on his arrival—though it seemed evident that the cheers were for Mussolini and for King Victor Emmanuel, who appeared with Hitler.

Today there began a six-day program of official engagements which gave Hitler hardly time to pause from early morning until midnight. There will be made chances for chats between Hitler and Mussolini, but today's programmed conference was the only formal talk scheduled during the entire visit.

Isolated for two hours from the pomp and circumstance of an official tour, the Nazi and Fascist leaders engaged in what Fascists forecast would be an "unburdening of hearts" regarding Germany's absorption of Austria and future plans for Central European expansion and Italy's new treaties.

Fascists said they believed that the future of the "Rome-Berlin axis" depended on this talk.

They meant that Mussolini and Hitler would find the precise extent to which their future ambitions could run parallel.

France Eyes Parley With Curiosity.

PARIS—(U.P.)—France watched with more curiosity than anxiety today the talk at Rome between Premier Benito Mussolini and Fuehrer Adolf Hitler.

For some reason, developments of the last week have convinced the government that the fate of central Europe generally, and of Czechoslovakia specifically, will be decided at Prague and not at Rome.

It is insisted that Italy has given no promises to France regarding central Europe. Yet the French are optimistic and are convinced that Mussolini will make no further concessions to German expansion. The feeling is that Mussolini regards himself as having paid his debt for Germany's support in the Ethiopian war by accepting German absorption of Austria.

the campaign workers Monday night by Attorney Harold Burns, chairman of the speakers' committee of the campaign.

Supplying the "swing" for the opening meeting of the campaign will be musical entertainment of a wide variety. The Friendly House Kindergarten Rhythm band that made such a hit in the parade Monday, will be on hand in their red and white suits to give the workers a musical thrill. The Singers' club of 36 voices will have Edith Fletcher Jamieson as soloist and Charles Conklin and William Black, billed as "The Pep Boys," will offer the comedy.

Rev. Baker, who is coming from Cleveland to address the meeting is known in his home city for his rehabilitation of both humans and second-hand goods. He believes the old adage that it is better to help people to help themselves than to give them charity.

After the second-hand goods are made usable, they are sold in the Goodwill store for very little and if the customers haven't the cash, they can pay for the article in hours of work at the shop.

YEAR PASSES AS HUNT CONTINUES FOR OHIO CO-ED

'Still Alive' Detective Who Worked on Baumgardner Mystery Declares.

By LYNN HEINZERLING
(By Associated Press)

DELAWARE — Ruth Elizabeth Baumgardner, pretty Ohio Wesleyan art student, waved a casual good night to the girls on the third floor of Austin hall one year ago tonight. A sweep of the arm, a smile, and the slim senior from Lakewood, O., stepped into her room and out of the world of her friends, classmates and family.

Miss Baumgardner didn't appear for breakfast in the morning. She didn't show up for a scheduled examination on John Galsworthy's novel, "The Patrician." She missed her art classes.

Late in the evening, her sorority sisters in Delta Delta Delta, troubled and perplexed, informed college officials and brought public and private investigators to the tranquil campus to probe a mystery which, in a year, has only deepened

"Still Alive," He Says.

"Your guess is as good as mine," said Gaston Stickeler, private detective engaged by the family "It's still as much of a mystery as the day she left I think she is still alive, but beyond that—." Stickeler just shrugged his shoulders.

Stickeler is one of those who believe the girl left voluntarily to "be on her own." Some others do not accept that theory easily.

Sheriff Merton F. Pinney of Delaware county, after weeks of investigating last year said: "The search for her has been too intensive not to unearth some clue to Ruth's whereabouts if she is still alive or, I might add, unless she is being held somewhere against her will."

Stickeler and the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baumgardner, have received hundreds of "tips." A Buffalo rooming house proprietor said Ruth applied for a room. A woman in Pomona, Calif., thought she saw her hitch-hiking She was reported seen in a Detroit cafe. A Nashville, Tenn., man said he gave a ride to the girl and a man she called "Frenchy." A lunchroom proprietor in La Mesa, N M., said she sat in his place. A Waco, Tex., man thought he saw her going into a motion picture house.

One 'Good' Clue.

There were hundreds more—all checked, all discarded — all but one Two Zanesville women, Mrs. R. A Earick and Mrs. Edward J. Hiehle, said they saw the girl with a youth, hitch-hiking in front of their apartment the day she was reported missing. The girl's mother listened to their description and said: "There were certain things in the description that made it impossible for the girl to be anyone else." The trail —if it was a trail—ended there.

It was 11:10 p. m. when Ruth Baumgardner, described by Miss Goldie McCue, assistant dean of women, as "one of the most normal girls on the campus," waved and walked into her room. She was dressed in pajamas

No one can say whether or where she slept that night. The covers of her bed in the single room were untouched. Some time before dawn of May 5, 1937, the comely art student left her room and vanished from the world she had known for 22 years.

A case containing the key to her room and a key to her fire-engine red coupe was found in a corner of the dormitory stairway. Her car was left in its garage.

Miss McCue said she took no extra clothing Although her mother had just sent her a blank, signed check, she apparently had little money Sorority sisters checked her room and said she either was wearing the "bobby pins" and the "end curlers" which she used when sleeping or thought to take them with her.

The quiet campus of the Methodist school was aroused. The president of the student body asked all students to be on the alert for clues. There was talk of kidnaping, amnesia. The investigation centered about an abandoned quarry for a while.

Investigators checked her recent activities. Harold Sheridan, the university dean, said she was a good student and would have graduated in a few weeks. Her class graduated without her.

CHAPTER XXIX

"It's all right—they're not going to," said Sylvia in a reassuring tone. "They said they'd had a conference or something at headquarters, and they weren't going to, because they think it was Francis who made me, and Mr. Brook said he didn't think I realized what I was doing, and there's some law about its being your husband's fault if he tells you to do something like that, so they're not going to arrest me. I think Mr. Brook likes me a little, because I began to cry, and he said not to quite nicely, but Colonel Anstruther only glared and said "Tcha!" "

Gay felt a good deal of relief. She thought the law a very convenient one for Sylvia

She said, "Why do they think it was Francis who made you take the paper? He couldn't have talked to you on the telephone without your knowing his voice"

"Oh, it wasn't Francis who talked to me on the telephone. I told them it wasn't, and they said they never thought it was. But they think Francis told him to do it—Mr. Zero, you know—and told him what to say and all that"

"But why should he, Sylly? Why should Francis make you do a thing like that?"

Sylvia wrinkled her smooth white brow.

"He was very jealous about me," she said in a doubtful voice. "He thought a lot about being older than me, and he used to say things like "I'll never let you go I'll find a way to keep you, my dear." And once he said "I've thought of a way to put a chain round your neck, my sweet' That was just before it all began to happen, and when I asked him what he meant he said a very horrid thing He said, 'You'll stay because you'll be afraid to go.' "

Gay said, "You think he made you take the paper so as to have a hold over you?"

"Of course" Sylvia said, "he wanted the paper too. And he needn't have been jealous—he ought to have known that. I mean, I'm not that sort—am I, darling? No one in our family ever has been—we just don't. And Mummy would have had a fit" Horror widened Sylvia's eyes "Oh, darling, isn't it a good thing they're not going to arrest me? What would Mummy have said?"

* * *

And at this very moment Mr. Brewster was turning things over in his mind. Like Gay Hardwicke, he felt considerably relieved to learn that there was no intention of putting the law in motion against Lady Colesborough. He had been too discreet to ask any direct question, but it had transpired that the lovely Sylvia would grace the witness box and not the dock. It should be a very interesting trial The trouble was that until the dock could be, so to speak, filled, no trial would take place. Mr. Brewster considered that Algy Somers would be very suitably cast for the part of prisoner at the bar. He had always disliked Algy a good deal, and although concealing this and some other emotions under a precise and formal manner, he now permitted himself to hope.

The matter which exercised him most was the exact line of conduct which it would be correct for him to pursue with regard to the widowed Lady Colesborough. The situation was a very delicate one. She was a newly made widow, and as such to be treated with all possible respect. He, as one of Lushington's secretaries, must demean himself with the utmost tact and discretion.

Yet it was in these very circumstances that an indelible impression might be made upon the feeling of a beautiful young woman who had been so suddenly and strangely bereaved. Now was the moment for delicate sympathy and loyal friendship, now was the moment to plant what might later burgeon and bear fruit. Francis Colesborough's widow was lovely, rich, and, for the moment, friendless Mr. Brewster thought deeply on the possibility of stepping forward in a true spirit of chivalry to support and comfort the mourner.

On the other hand he would have to be very careful, because it was now certain to come out that Lady Colesborough had compromised herself by abstracting papers from the Home Secretary's despatch case. There might be no prosecution, but she would remain compromised, and he could not afford to associate with persons whose probity was not above suspicion. It was all very delicate and required the most careful handling.

* * *

Mr. Brewster looked at his watch and found the time to be half past three. He thought he would take a walk. Fresh air and exercise would assist his mental processes. A strong inclination to walk in the direction of Cole Lester presented itself. He was engaged in a prudent resistence, when the telephone bell rang and a voice demanded Mr. Lushington He recognized the voice as that of Mr. Brook and made a note of the fact that the tone suggested urgency.

When staying at Railing Place, Mr. Lushington was accommodated with a sitting-room which opened out of his bedroom Both rooms were provided with telephone extensions Mr Brewster informed his chief that he was wanted on the line and withdrew But at the same moment that Mr Lushington was saying "Hullo!" his secretary was opening the bedroom door and very carefully closing it again. It was essential that he should discover what had brought that urgent tone into Mr. Brook's voice He crossed silently to the bedside instrument, lifted the receiver, and listened in He had lost nothing except the preliminary "Hullo!" for he could hear the Home Secretary saying, "What is it, Brook?" And then Mr. Brook, still with that subdued urgency, "Well, sir, I thought I had better tell you. There's something come to light among those papers we took out of the safe."

"Yes, Brook?" Montagu Lushington's tone was quiet.

"Well, sir, I'm afraid it's conclusive."

"Will you tell me what has been found?"

"A scrap of paper with a couple of lines of cipher on it—just a bit that had been torn off and had got caught up in a pile of bills. That's why it wasn't noticed before." Mr. Brook's voice dropped a shade. "I've just had it decoded. It runs: 'To have one of Lushington's secretaries in our pay is worth all he asks—and more' I'm sorry, sir, but I am afraid it is quite conclusive The Chief Constable is having Mr. Somers arrested at once"

"I see," said Montagu Lushington in a tired voice. What he saw was family disgrace, public scandal, and the end of his own career.

Mr. Brewster slipped quietly out of the bedroom And downstairs. And out of the house. Whatever prudence counselled, he was going to walk over to Cole Lester. It would be worth some risk to see Algy Somers arrested.

He took a short cut across the fields which would reduce the distance from five miles to three. The path presently skirted a deserted quarry and came by way of a rough cart track out upon the high road again.

Algy Somers looked up from the letter he was trying to write and said, "Come in." The knock which he thought he had heard was so weak and hesitating that it might have been any chance sound. He was therefore faintly surprised when the door opened and displayed William in a condition of acute embarrassment.

"Yes?" said Algy. "What is it?"

William stood and twisted the handle. It went sharply through Algy's mind that the police had come to arrest him, and that William knew it. He managed a smile, and said, "Out with it, William. What is it?"

William came a hesitating step into the room. "If you please, sir," he said, "might I have a word with you, sir?"

Relief rushed in on Algy So it wasn't his arrest—not yet He said cheerfully, "As many as you like. What's up, man? Why are you dithering?"

"I don't rightly know how to begin, sir."

"Begin at the beginning What's it all about anyway?"

Algy very nearly said, "So have I," but it seemed well to keep William to the point if possible, so he substituted an encouraging "That sounds all right."

Why the car that made automobile history is the car you ought to buy
THE PACKARD EIGHT
Also known as the Packard 120
—leader for three consecutive years among all cars now priced* from $1155 and up delivered at the factory
When motor-wise America hands the lion's share of the laurels to any one motor car, it's a sure bet that car is a better car
And, for the past three years, America has preferred the Packard Eight (also known as the Packard 120) to all cars in the above price range. In fact, taking totals for the past three years, almost as many people bought Packard Eights as bought the next two cars combined in this price class.
If you'll drive and inspect the new Packard Eight, we believe you'll quickly agree with this majority verdict. We're anxious to show you how easy a Packard Eight is to own. Drop in tomorrow!

WEDNESDAY, MAY 4, 1938.

Little likelihood of the world coming to an end soon—there are too many things unfinished.

There aren't so many radicals in this country—it's only that each one of them makes so much more noise.

Some people think it's the politicians that spoil everything, some think it's the business men, and some think it's the sunspots.

Rewards of Fire Prevention.

WINTER is over, and millions of people will soon start a pleasant round of motoring trips, picnics, camping excursions and other forms of outdoor recreation.

If you are one of these, you will see nature at her best. But do your part to make sure that she continues at her best—by being careful with fire.

There are millions of acres of ravished, blackened stump land in this country that once bore magnificent trees—because someone was careless with a campfire. Some of the finest natural garden spots have been turned into ashy wastes—because someone was careless with a cigarette. Animals and humans have perished in holocausts of raging flame—because someone took a chance with fire.

Almost all states have laws against throwing matches or lighted tobacco from cars—obey them rigorously. They are sound laws, designed for your protection, and they deserve your co-operation.

Don't go on a camping trip without the basic tools of fire control—a shovel and a good-sized bucket. If possible, make a rock fireplace for your fire. Under no circumstances build it near brush, dry leaves or other easily inflammable materials. Don't build a large fire—a relatively small one is adequate for all camping needs. And when you are through with it, really put it out—douse it with water, and shovel dirt over the ash. Be certain that not a spark remains.

The prevention of fire in the outdoors is its own reward—it guarantees that there will be a beauty spot for you to visit next year.

Skill Should Not Be 'Shelved.'

WHEN John Sulzer, 74-year-old Mansfield machinist works along toward completion of the 24-inch model locomotive, to which he has been giving spare time for the past 21 months, he is doing more than merely following a hobby.

He is demonstrating that a trained and capable man above seventy years of age is still able to do fine work, and provides a living example of the fallacy of "shelving" brains and skill at some arbitrarily established age limit for employment.

When there has been time for a better working out of things in this country, ways will be found to utilize the industry, energy and skill of older men and women who are ambitious to continue in employment—with suitable jobs adapted to their physical strength and mental ability.

For the past couple of decades there has been an inclination, in some industries, to discard workers before they have reached middle age, in favor of more youthful employes. This procedure has come about largely through consideration of greater likelihood of physical ailments among older employes and without regard for increasing skill and dependability that so frequently develops with the passing years.

Pride in individual workmanship—such as has been displayed by John Sulzer in machining the parts for his miniature locomotive—is a thing that needs encouragement among ambitious younger people—and is one that also merits recognition and suitable reward by employers.

Where Teaching Stops Learning Starts.

THE current issue of Teachers College Record prints the following excerpt from the graduation address of a high school valedictorian:

> "We thank you (parents and teachers) for your gifts of affection and kindness. We thank you most for the skill and perseverance with which you have trained us to face the world. But for the world you have given us to face, we cannot thank you. You have tried to teach us how to run the world. But this is something you are not qualified to teach."

There is plenty of food for serious thought in that youngster's statement. But he need not be too hard on his parents and teachers. They have given him a world in which his chances for health and education are greater than theirs were a generation ago. They have given him marvelous new means of communication, innumerable labor-saving devices to ease his physical work and innumerable instruments for entertainment and education.

Equipped with brains, education and gratitude, the young men and women coming out of the schools now need not complain that they come into an imperfect world. Let them tackle it in their turn, as others have done before them, and make it a better one.

Dude Ranches Go Erudite.

WESTWARD the course of culture takes its way, and the latest evidence is "dude ranching." This supposedly primitive method of collecting tourists' vacation money is getting what you might call eastern improvements. That is, if eastern culture is really an improvement.

Anyway, a point in history seems to be attained by the graduation of the first student in the Dude Ranching Course offered by the University of Wyoming at Laramie. He gets the degree of Bachelor of Science.

And what does that science include? It embraces "institutional management, cuisine, animal production, zoology, geology, western lore, veterinary science and agronomy." Requisites for admittance to the course of study include "personality, scholastic ability and love of ranching."

Some of the old-timers, doing pretty well in the cultivation of the dude-ranching crop in spite of their lack of indoor learning, may doubt the value of all such lore. But that is to be expected. Some fellows have a natural genius for dude ranching and others have to learn it.

Isn't it about time for the children to start acquainting their parents with some of the "facts of life"?

President Roosevelt has said that he will not "let the people down"—but will he let them up?

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

EVEN with merely a moderate upturn, many corporations will show comparatively large net earnings.

This is indicated by the first quarter report of the United States Steel corporation. Wall Street had counted on a a large-sized loss. Instead, the loss was moderate — $1,292,151. That, in spite of the fact shipments during the period averaged merely 35.3 per cent of capacity.

It has been estimated in the past that "Big Steel" must operate at 50 to 60 per cent to break even. That estimate now has been revised down to 40 per cent.

Why the change? Wages have gone up. Taxes have risen.

The answer lies in two things—modernization, and efficiency with better management and better help.

Workers have feared that new machines would displace men. They have—for a while. But increased production at lower costs, and the production of materials hitherto impossible, open new markets, give larger earnings per man, permit increased wages.

The industry that is down the worst of all—railroads—suffers because it has not the credit (due to overcapitalization) to modernize.

TROUBLE IN ENGLAND?

Observers of English politics are beginning to wonder whether the cabinet of Prime Minister Chamberlain will survive another year.

Opposition is seething beneath the surface. Laborites and Liberals say the nation has been "sold out" to the Fascist countries. There is particular anger about switching sides in Spain—to protect British financial interests—and in recognizing Italy's conquest of Ethiopia. Now there are rumors of British loans to aid Italy in developing Ethiopia, and to help the Franco interests in Spain. (And, of course, increased taxes are not popular.)

Most of the moves of the British conservatives are decided upon at week-end house parties or conferences. And now the British electorate has been raising a hue and cry against such house parties—at least, at one place: Lady Astor's huge estate on the Thames. Lady Astor, Virginia-born, represents the ultra-conservatives, the pro-Nazi coalition faction. Her husband, Lord Astor, chief owner of the London Times, has been looked upon by the German Nazi as a powerful protagonist for an Anglo-Nazi pact.

Lady Astor, as a member of parliament, probably is the most widely quoted Britisher in politics aside from the chief cabinet members themselves. And it is assumed (by those who do not attend) that her house parties have undue weight with the government.

INFLUENCE HERE, TOO.

In Washington, there is a feeling that the American state department is considerably under the influence of the British foreign office. American envoys in Europe seem to stand in awe of the British, and at home Secretary of State Cordell Hull has fallen in line with virtually every British suggestion.

He now is meeting left-wing attack for failing to lift the embargo on Loyalist Spain while the insurgents have obtained supplies from Italy and Germany — and oil from America, via Italy.

Isolationist senators have tried without success to learn how deeply the American state department has intangled itself with British policy — which is dominated by Tory influences at week-end parties.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, May 4, 1918.

R. A. Spratt retired from firm of Bechtel & Spratt and purchased J. H. Burkholder studio.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Enos Hershey, East Third street.

Miss Christine Keiser and Adolph Pulvermiller were married by Rev. E. J. E. Kuhlman.

H. E. McClure, assistant police chief, went to Dayton on trail of stolen car.

"UNOFFICIAL OBSERVER"

Seven or Eight Parties Foreseen

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Independent political party movements are multiplying at a rate which is becoming downright difficult to keep track of.

To begin with, each of the two old-line parties is split at least two ways. A Democrat like Senator Harry F. Byrd has little in common with a Democrat like President Franklin D. Roosevelt. A Republican such as Senator Gerald P. Nye is the antithesis of such a Republican as Senator Frederick Hale.

However, Senator Byrd and Nye are not a bit similar, nor is Senator Hale in the slightest sympathy with President Roosevelt.

So there are at least four groups.

But that does not tell the whole story by any means.

* * *

PROGRESSIVES

Gov. Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin, as we know, seems to be launching a new national organization, an expansion of his own state's Progressive line-up—a repetition of what his father attempted 14 years ago, and failed at. But it may have better luck this time.

Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York City appears to be trying to create a countrywide set-up of HIS own.

Possibly La Follette and La Guardia activities will merge presently, but as yet they look like separate efforts. It is imaginable that there is a clash between La Follette and La Guardia personal ambitions.

* * *

FARMER-LABOR

Now Labor's Non-Partisan league has formed a "Joint Farmer-Labor Committee on Co-Operative Enterprise"—still another party looming in the offing.

To be sure, there already exists a Farmer-Labor party, dominant thus far only in Minnesota.

One might surmise that a "Joint Farmer-Labor Committee on Co-Operative Enterprise" and a Farmer-Labor party could affiliate with one another.

Nevertheless, urban labor prevails in Labor's Non-Partisan league, which sponsors the "joint committee," whereas farmers outweigh urban labor in the Farmer-Labor party.

* * *

IDENTICAL INTERESTS?

Anyone ought to realize that, basically, rural and urban labors' interests are identical.

But they are not identical superficially.

The farmer fancies monetary inflation. He has a lot to sell, but does not need to buy much; he can support himself mainly. Consequently he likes high prices. As prices rise, urban labor's wages do not rise so fast, by a heap-sight.

In the course of years the urbanite's income will readjust itself, but he may starve to death in the meantime.

To be sure, the hardships of urban labor will be reflected back upon the farmer, through the city man's reduction in purchasing power, but it will be gradual.

* * *

HOPELESS COALITION?

Meanwhile, from agriculture's standpoint, "To heck with the urbanite."

I know this from many talks with farmer senators and representatives.

And the urbanites are equally unsympathetic toward the farmers.

So farmer-labor movements strike me as unpromising—not because they are illogical, but because they are hopeless.

* * *

SEVEN PARTIES

Well, then, we have seven or eight impending parties.

They will not materialize at this year's congressional elections, but they will begin to be indicated.

Maybe they will have sorted themselves out somewhat by 1940.

If not, we shall have about seven or eight different parties in the 77th congress—and a president doubtfully selected by the house of representatives.

Like European countries!

Except we shall not be as well adapted to that kind of government as in Europe (which is used to it).

ALL of US

—By MARSHALL MASLIN

It Isn't Funny.

THE other day I saw on the cover of a magazine a drawing of a little man waiting in the hallway of a maternity ward. He was an insignificant gentleman with a worried look, very nervous, and so upset that, without knowing it, he was tearing the fringe from his muffler and throwing the shreds on the floor.

It was supposed to be a funny picture, showing the comic side of a husband's anxiety while he is awaiting the birth of a child.

All right then, it just goes to show that I haven't any sense of humor—but I don't think that color drawing was funny. I don't think any of those all-too-frequent gags about anxious young fathers are funny. . . . Funny things can happen at such times as they can happen in church, in dignified assemblages, and everywhere else . . . But unless you happen to be essentially cynical about the human race—and the majority of us are not—there is nothing funny about a husband's fears while his beloved is passing through the agony of bringing another human being into this world.

We'll assume that the little fellow on the magazine is timid, ordinary, limited in intelligence. We'll assume that his wife is neither pretty nor above the average in brains. Neither is important, except as part of the census totals. And their children may never be more important than they have been. Just an average little fellow who will bring them great joy and some anxiety, but whom they may never regret having brought into the world.

But his father's nervous intensity on the morning of his birth is NOT funny. . . . Tomorrow, perhaps, that father may be swaggering around the office where he works, boasting and passing out cigars. At that moment, for me, he may seem pathetically funny, if you wish. And during the next year when he bores all his associates by insisting that they look at his snapshots of that miraculously common baby, he may be both a nuisance and a bore.

But not now, not as he waits and worries, feeling so helpless, wishing he could do some little thing to help, to lift his wife out of the pain she is undergoing—not now is he funny. Now he is uplifted, now is raised beyond his average insignificance. . . . Now he carries the dignity and the grandeur of man on his small shoulders. He is nobler at this instant than he has ever been, than he may ever be again. He is a part of the great, imposing pageant of mankind. . . . And he ISN'T funny!

Health Advice

Span of Life Has Increased.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

A RECENT report of the United States public health service indicates that the expectancy of long life is greater now than ever before. An infant born today has the prospect of living 12 years longer than was expected of its parents at their birth. The expectancy of life in 1900 was 49 years, while the expectation of today's baby is 61 years.

But we must not be misled by statistics. In this matter, for example, we are dealing with babies in the mass; the individual baby may not have so bright a prospect. Whether by bad luck or by chance or whatnot, the youngster may die young. I recently pointed out to you that there has been a marked increase in disease of the middle-aged and the number of deaths.

If we carefully examine the statistics, we discover many interesting facts. The diseases of the young are better controlled than they were in former years. Boys born in cities are likely to live longer than girls. The children of cities are healthier than those of the country. This must mean that the health conditions, sanitation and hygiene are better in cities than in rural sections.

Not Understood.

In former years the life expectancy of man was definitely influenced by many diseases that were imperfectly understood. A baby born in Rome during Nero's time had an expectation of life at birth of not more than 20 to 25 years. In England around 1800 it is estimated that it was around 38 years. As knowledge increased, particularly concerned the diseases of childhood, there was a steady decrease in the death rate.

But all these things do not make certain by any means that the expectation of life will continue to increase, or that the individual's hope of life is growing brighter. The future span of life depends entirely upon the control of such diseases as cancer, diabetes, heart disease, kidney disorders, "strokes" and other tragedies of middle life. Many of these disorders are neglected and only brought to the attention of the doctor after a catastrophe has occurred.

Health authorities believe that by careful periodic health examinations it will be possible to decrease these serious disorders. If they are properly attended to, there is no doubt that the average span of life will be markedly lengthened.

As Others See It

This Explains It.

Under the stress of modern living conditions, a hobby is most essential. A hobby, you know, is something one goes goofy over in order to keep from going nuts.—Omaha World-Herald.

Listen, World!

A Dreary Job . . . or a Gift to God.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MARY MARGARET McBRIDE — real person, that lady! — broadcast a lovely thing the other day in her radio time.

She told of a woman who wished to give a present to a church she deeply loved. Being poor, she could not give a costly gift of golden candles or priceless altar lace. But there was one fine thing which lay within her means —she could launder exquisitely. Laundering—that seemed a very humble thing to offer God. But if one had nothing else — surely He'd understand!

And so each Sunday, as the splendid music rolls and incense billows on the yearning waves of prayer . . . the choir boys march, shining, immaculate, in the surplices this poor woman launders as her gift to God.

As Mary Margaret McBride told of this "gift" in that friendly, rambling way she has, it seemed to me that I had never heard a lovelier tale—or come upon a nobler philosophy of life.

Perhaps it touched me particularly because I have been so very poor myself, most of my life. And sometimes I feel pretty mad about it all! Always the same drab walls and dreary halls . . . the same rasping worry over spending each scanty dime—how I hated it! Not that I minded so much doing without pretty clothes; I've never cared a hoot how I looked, anyway. But it was the POOR FEELING that always got me down. Never being able to do some gay, unexpected happy thing . . .

To buy some poor, shabby kid a new school outfit, for example . . . or get a radio for some bedridden cripple . . . or send some wornout mother to the beach for a week . . . or give some worried Dad a fishing trip.

I didn't kid myself that there was anything noble about these urges. I didn't want to be noble. I just wanted to have fun—and there's no more gorgeous fun in all the world than giving somebody else a Big Moment . . . nothing that will, so suddenly and surely, splash your own gray life with scarlet and gold and blue.

Oh, how I wanted to have fun like that! And how I envied those that could. Daily I saw a dozen openings, but what chance had I —with my empty purse! And many a time I wept with self-pity, thinking how glorious life might have been if I had been given what-it-takes.

Then, this morning, in a flash, Mary Margaret McBride made me see the needlessness of all my silly pain. Why, I could have had my lovely adventures—my splashes of scarlet and blue and gold—if I had just opened my eyes, instead of keeping them dull with angry, self-pitying tears.

It was true I was poor . . . but one did not need money to find adventure . . . one needed only a warm heart, an eager mind. One did not even need to LIVE differently . . . one simply needed to FEEL differently about the way one was living. THEN ONE COULD TAKE THE PLAINEST CHORE AND DO IT AS A GIFT TO GOD.

Take for instance, cleaning shelves. It doesn't require money to clean shelves . . . to make a cluttered, stagnant room all April sweet for some bed-ridden wife. I'm pretty good at "redding" things up, but how I've grumbled about it—FELT POOR because of it! But suppose I went across the hall to sick Mrs. Jones and made a GIFT of those scrubbed shelves instead of a dreary JOB . . . You couldn't feel poor very long if you were giving a GIFT TO GOD!

Or, if one were a man, think of the kick you could get out of fixing a screen door or making a cupboard out of a packing box. Even if you were discouraged all week—feeling that you were only one jump ahead of relief — mightn't you feel as important as a Rockefeller for just that generous hour? And mightn't that brief lift into happiness and decision give you a boost that would last for days . . . give you even enough hope and pep to lick the Relief entirely?

A dreary job—
OR A GIFT TO GOD!
Merely a difference in how you feel—
BUT WHAT A DIFFERENCE!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I was standing in the dining room of a major hotel on the East Side talking with Commander Bailis of the Coast Guard and former Governor Lawrence Judd of the Hawaiian Islands, when a slim, dark young man came up and addressed the Commander.

"Hello, dad," he said, "we are sitting over there behind that palm. Come on over."

"All right, Jack," the Commander replied. Then he said, "Gentlemen, this is my son. He's sitting with Lieutenant Walsh, of the U. S. Navy. Maybe you saw the stories about Lieutenant Walsh in the papers this afternoon."

"I certainly did," I replied. "I wonder if the Lieutenant is too tired to talk a little?"

"Not at all," exclaimed young Bailis pleasantly. "Come over and I'll introduce him to you now."

* * *

SO WE picked our way through the crowd until we came to a table behind a big palm tree and presently I was shaking hands with that capable young officer who is just back after ten months in the Antarctic. He has been down in the polar regions seeing that the whaling regulations are observed by the American-Norwegian fishing agencies whose representatives are taking whales in the vicinity of Byrdland.

"How does it feel to be back, Lieutenant?" was a natural . . . "Well," replied the Lieutenant, "after ten months aboard ship, what do you think?"

His feet were planted on a nice hard floor beneath a nice white table and he was permitting the softly languorous zephyrs of music to gently brush the salt air out of his hair.

"How about those whales?" I inquired.

"They took about 3,000 of them," he replied.

"Any big ones?"

"Well, one of the blue ones hit 96 feet."

"Blue whales? What's that?"

"Oh, there are lots of different species," said the lieutenant, "Blue, sperm, fin, killer, humpback—my job was to see that the regulations were enforced. You see, I suppose I acted as a sort of naval game warden. Any humpback, for instance, under 35 feet in length, like your five-inch New York trout, must be turned back.

* * *

WE SAW a lot of penguins, too. And what strange little fellows they are. When a whale was killed they would hop upon his back and ride. They'd stay right there until the carcass was dragged aboard ship, and then they'd back up step by step, as the whale came over the side—until they backed themselves into the sea. There were thousands of them for awhile, and then one day most of them were gone. They went over on the mainland and began building nests. They've got a housing project on down there too, just like people in this country."

I talked with him a few minutes and then left him to enjoy his brief stay ashore without too many reminiscences of the long ten months afloat. For he must report back to Washington within one week. And after that—quien sabe? These sailors never know where they're going, until they're half way there.

Segregate Sex Deviates.

The proposal of the state hospital director to provide a separate institution for care of sex deviates is one to put high on the state's list of needed future improvements.

The cost of financing and maintaining such an institution makes early realization of the idea appear impractical, but Dr. Barrett is manifestly right in saying that this is the proper approach to the problem of sex deviation. It is the experimental approach. Altogether too little is known of sex deviation at present to warrant much confidence in any attempted dealing with the subject. The victims are neither criminal nor insane, according to ordinary standards. Yet, as nearly every urban community has good reason to know, their behavior on occasion may be just as dangerous. The safety of the community demands that known cases be segregated and a separate institution appears to be the logical answer.

A separate institution not only would fill the immediate need for a place of segregation but would afford opportunities not now available for specialized research in the basic aspects of the problem.—Detroit News.

Everyday Poems

No More The Road.

The road holds little for me now
That I have you and home,
No more the winding silver way
Allures, or rolling loam.

I am content; as long as you
Will hold me in your love,
I shall stay here, this place to me
Gay as the stars above,

And sweet as any road could be,
This home you make. I know
No wanderlust and only wish
The pathway home to go.

American bred cockers are "best sellers" in the dog kingdom this year. One of the Mansfield-born pups traveled as far as the Canary Islands to a new home. Many others have gone thousands of miles from "Lindaire."

They're gentle, affectionate little pets, but we wouldn't advise any would-be dognapers to go prowling about the premises. Fashionable or not, 35 or more dogs can make considerable racket when disturbed.

And just as an additional warning, there's a huge St. Bernard dog who roams about the yard at night. He has been trained for the specific job of keeping uninvited prowlers from prowling!

FIRE TRUCK STRIPPED

MONTE RIO, Cal. —(U.P.)—The city's fire department is hoping there will be no fires in the immediate future. Some one looted the fire truck of 14 gallons of gasoline, 200 feet of red chemical hose and the nozzle. It will take the city council some time to replace them.

EMPIRE ATTRACTS

Quite as favored as early American in interior decoration is American Empire The furniture for an American Empire room is usually in rosewood, mahogany or walnut. The walls can be papered in a floral or formalized tans, and the draperies can be rich and flaunt fringe trimming. Plain broadloom carpeting is always in keeping with this period, and there are certain inlaid linoleums available which fit nicely into this American Empire scene.

Young Girl Seeks Decent Boy Friends

By VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR MISS LEE: A young man wrote to you recently saying there were no decent girls. I would like to meet some decent young men. In my opinion there are very few of them. I went with a very nice boy for several months, but as our religious views were different we thought it best to part. This is heart breaking for me, but I suppose it is for the best.

"For the past two months I have had dates with different boys. I am 20, and like to go out and have a good time. If I refuse to carry on the way boys want me to they say, "Oh, you think you're perfect!' That is not my opinion of myself, but I do want to be decent and respectable, therefore, I'd like to meet some of these decent boys and girls.

"I find it hard to entertain young people in my home. My people are not well off. We have no radio or piano. My biggest problem is to entertain the boy friend when he calls. I think mother and dad should show my company that they are welcome. I am the oldest in a family of six, and the only girl. Dad sometimes embarrasses me by asking questions concerning matters which I think are my company's own affairs. My younger brothers make nuisances of themselves at times. SUSANA."

You are having the usual problems of the young girl, my dear. You all meet some boys who do not have the same standards as you do. You have already met one nice boy, you say, so you know that there ARE such. It was wise for you two to part under the circumstances, although it was discouraging. Insist upon being treated with respect.

Expect your parents to welcome your young friends when they come to your home. If you always speak to them and present the boy friend to them, when he comes they will be cordial. You cannot control what they say, of course, so pass it over when dad seems a little too curious. He probably doesn't mean to be. Also be good natured about the young brothers. Small brothers are proverbial pests to their big sister and her beaux. Young men will understand. And if you haven't a radio or piano, play games. You can get games for 10 cents up.

Good luck, my dear, and let me know if there are any other suggestions that I can make.

This New Slip Tops Off Request for Smooth Straight Lines.

By MARIAN MARTIN

Because your Summer dresses are sheer it is important that the slip you wear with them follow smooth, unwrinkled lines. With this in mind Marian Martin has designed a Princess slip which you can make easily from Pattern 9723 and its accompanying Diagrammed Sew Chart. Its panelled lines fit with superb smoothness yet flare gracefully in the skirt. The straps are cut in one piece with the center panels to keep them from slipping. Make a petticoat from the same pattern to wear with your sun-back cotton frocks or make one in bright, rustly taffeta to wear under your street or travelling clothes. Order your pattern today!

Pattern 9723 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 slip requires 2⅞ yards 39 inch fabric.

BE SURE TO STATE SIZE

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Just out! New Marian Martin summer pattern book. Get your copy now! Prepare your wardrobe for any holiday mood . . . for sports, for teas, for casual summer fun. Here you'll find interesting, up-to-the-minute styles to please every feminine heart—for tot, for junior-miss or matron . . . all designed for easy making at home! Write today for this book. Price of book fifteen cents. Price of pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together only twenty-five cents.

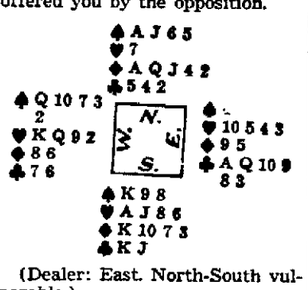
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

USE THE REDOUBLE

Don't be afraid to redouble when your judgment tells you that your contract can be made in spite of the other fellow's double, and when he has no chance to escape into a safe sacrifice contract. Use that weapon which has been placed in your hands as a means of picking up a lot of extra points which may have been offered you by the opposition.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

As soon as South made a vulnerable second hand opening bid on this deal, North had visions of a slam if a fit could be found with either of his suits. The initial call was a heart and North responded with just two diamonds, being in no hurry to show his strength. East interrupted with three clubs. When South now bid three-no trump, he was at one level higher than would have been necessary to say a mere two-no trump over his partner's two-diamonds in case East had passed. He was therefore showing more than a minimum hand, which sounded like music to North. The latter then called four-spades, quite a strong bid at this stage and an inferential force, since it would drive South to five if he preferred the diamonds.

Here, South decided, the fit was shown, so went to five-diamonds and North took it to six. West doubled and North, confident that his partner had the heart ace and and could take the second club trick in view of his no-trump bid, redoubled. East took his club ace on the first trick, but then the show was over.

THEATER

BACK stage with Hollywood stars: Groucho Marx has lost the glasses that are an important part of his screen makeup. He purchased them 11 years ago for 25 cents and he would pay $75 to have them returned. . . . Myrna Loy says the oriental angle of her name never occurred to her until she saw her name in the telephone book sandwiched between Hop Loy and Sing Loy. . . . Rumor has it that Dorothy Lamour of the jungle wants to bob her hair but her boses won't permit it . . . and speaking of hair, Una Merkle is no longer a blonde. . . . She has darkened hers to a light brown.

* * *

Murder and the Woman.

* * *

Kelly Turns Sawyer.

Tom Sawyer, the boy who knows how to get a fence whitewashed in record style, will play a return engagement in the movie version of his adventures tomorrow at the Madison. The film's Tom Sawyer came from the Bronx instead of Missouri, but he had the freckles and the red hair to fit in with the mental picture of Tom Sawyer fans. His real name is Tommy Kelly but we doubt if he'll ever be known as anyone but the boy who played Tom Sawyer in years to come. Dorothy Lamour in "Her Jungle Love" ends tonight.

* * *

Building the Great Wall.

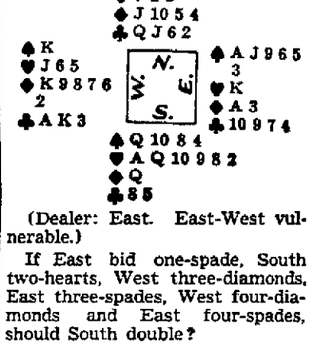
Out of a range of hills in California, Hollywood engineers sculptered a replica of the Great Wall of Chinia for the background of "The Good Earth," appearing at the Majestic today and tomorrow. The Great Wall is part of the vast location for Chinese towns, villages and farm communities, fields, and gardens re-created near Hollywood in the film co-starring Luise Rainer and Paul Muni. In the other film, "Extortion" at the Majestic, real college students are used from the University of Southern California to furnish background for a mystery drama starring Mary Russell and Scott Colton.

* * *

No Sissies are Fighters.

Twenty-eight real fighters headed by Maxie Rosenbloom have a part in the "Kid Comes Back" playing at the Ritz theater today and tomorrow. In the group are five featherweight one-time championship contenders, several of whom have held the world's title: Frankie Garcia, Joe Glick, Sammy Shack, Joe Stanley, and Joe Ritchie. Taking the fighting laurels from all champions though is the star of the picture, Wayne Morris, who lost his amateur rating as a college-trained boxer when he swapped "rights to the chin" with Maxie. Playing with Wayne is June Travis. Also on the bill is "Radio City Revels."

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If East bid one-spade, South two-hearts, West three-diamonds, East three-spades, West four-diamonds and East four-spades, should South double?

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I stared at Mary in consternation as she asked me if I had forgotten that we must go back to the French restaurant in a week and do some more "listening in."

For, in my absorption over the threat to her career which I had seen in the way Philip Veritzen had trained her to act her role in the forthcoming production of my play, I had indeed forgotten for the moment the bizarre experience which had been ours at the restaurant when we had unwittingly overheard a colloquy of Dicky's with the drunken woman who had telephoned him at our hotel.

Culpable, indeed, I counted myself for that lapse of memory, for the conversation we had overheard had cleared Dicky of any suspicion that the woman was in any sense my rival, but it had made clear to Mary and me that he was menaced by some sinister threat on the part of the drunken woman and her ruffianly companion.

"Mary!" I blindly lashed out at her. "Surely you're not planning to go near those unspeakable people again!"

Recalls Woman's Words.

"And why not?" she countered coolly. "If you can tell me any other way by which we can find out what they're planning, I'll take it gladly. I don't like the cut of their jibs a bit better than you do. But—have you forgotten what that woman said? 'I'll be here a week from tonight with or without the Dicky-bird.' And have you forgotten that she also promised him 'enough action for 10 men,' when he was complaining that the affair wasn't moving fast enough to suit him?"

"I have forgotten nothing," I said dully, "and you are right in your premise. We must do everything in our power to find out what is menacing your uncle. But, have you considered, Dearest? Suppose we run head on into Dicky and this woman, as we may very well do. What then?"

"Put the best face possible on it," she retorted. "Uncle Dicky wouldn't have the slightest suspicion that we were trailing him, he'd just think it was 'Old Man Coincidence working overtime,' as he says so often.

Mary Confident.

"But—" she emphasized the conjunction with an expressive knuckle struck against the palm of her left hand—"It's dollars to doughnuts that we'll not run into him. That woman's the type to take the same booth every time she goes there. It's probably as nearly a home as she knows"—she gave a grim smile—"and all we have to do is to go over especially early, take the same booth we did before, and dawdle over our order until the woman arrives, with or without Uncle Dicky. We can tell the waiter we're waiting for a friend and do not wish to order until she comes. Then, after the woman arrives, we can say that we cannot wait any longer for our friend, and we'll give our order according to the one the woman gives, so we can get out if we want to at the same time she does. How's that for a scheme?"

"It sounds like a good one," I said, trying to smile, but succeeding only indifferently. "But I cannot minimize the danger of meeting your uncle as you do."

She hesitated oddly.

"There's a way around that if you're game to take it," she said, then added quickly—"Oh! Darling, you know I didn't mean that the way it sounded! You're game enough for anything. But I don't know how you'll react to my harebrained plan."

"If it involves—" I began frigidly, but she leaned forward and touched my lips with the tips of her fingers.

"Don't say it!" she pleaded. "Don't decide anything yet. Remember I haven't told you what my plan is, only that I have one. Won't you reserve judgment until later in the week, when I'll outline it to you? Please, Darling!"

Potatoes, in spite of the bad name they have been given by people who are overburdened with "too, too solid flesh," are a very good food—in fact, they are included in what physicians call the "protective foods." They give the body starch, some protein, iron and Vitamin C. They are an ideal food combined with milk. Ordinary bottled fresh milk may be used in place of the evaporated in these recipes, in which case you leave out the water. The pudding recipe is taken from "A New Book of Cookery," by Fannie Merritt Farmer.

Today's Recipes.

FISH CHOWDER—One pound haddock, five potatoes, one sliced onion, two cups irradiated evaporated milk, two cup water, three tablespoons butter, salt and pepper. Wash haddock and cut in small pieces. Peel potatoes, cut in small pieces and boil for five minutes. Add sliced onion and the fish. Cook together until fish is done. Add the milk, water and butter, season with salt and pepper. Heat. This makes five to six servings.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, May 5.

This should be a rather neutral day, according to the lunar transits, but one on which much may depend on personal discretion, fairness and freedom from rancorous speech or writings. These may provoke reprisals in the way of gossip, slander or other sinister comebacks. There are omens of fraud, misconstruction, distortion and trickiness. Keep alert and straightforward in all business as well as private transactions.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a rather adverse situation to contend with during the year, unless they keep a very firm curb on their tongues, refraining from unkind, bitter and provocative speech and writings that may draw the animosity and slanderous reprisals of those assailed. Fraud, treachery, betrayal and disputes may mark an uncertain state of affairs. Be wise.

A child born on this day may have a very clever and shrewd intellect, but may be the victim of its own unruly tongue, which may subject it to gossip, slander, libel and litigation, unless it be given a friendly and kindly outlook in its early years.

In taking care of your strawberry plants during the summer you must keep out the weeds. Space the first runner plants that appear about nine inches apart and then when your rows have filled in to a width of 2 or 2½ feet you'd better start removing the runners and take off every runner that appears after that.

THEY SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES — ABOUT ECONOMY

"19.2

MILES PER GALLON OF FUEL—IN A 12-CYLINDER CAR!"

People can't stop talking about the kind of mileage this "twelve" gives.

"I am an engineer," writes an enthusiastic owner — "see things from a technical point of view. Recently I bought a medium-price, streamlined car, the Lincoln-Zephyr, with many advanced features.

"Twelve cylinders meant smoothness, obviously. But I considered statements of gasoline economy just rosy poetic license!

"Well—we filled the tank, drove to Fort Pierce, and back, and measured the gas. We had gotten 19.2 miles per gallon of gas!"

Twelve thrifty cylinders is only the first chapter in the Lincoln-Zephyr story! Get the rest from your dealer!

Don't Be Embarrassed By Bad Manners.

Smooth Manners Always Win.

Stop frowning, Betty. Accidents will happen. And etiquette says, "Make-light of them—smile!"

And your part, Bill, is just to apologize sincerely for jostling Betty, try not to be so awkward the next time.

Be sure! Don't guess about etiquette. In a bridge game, don't whistle or drum on the table while another player debates which card to play. Don't stand behind your partner and give advice when you're dummy. Sit quietly, be gracious to all players and a good loser.

Inviting a man to the club dance, don't say, "Are you busy Friday night?" Say correctly, "Our club is giving a dance this Friday. Will you be my guest?"

Invited to go dancing some new place, don't guess at clothes. It's proper to ask your mate, "Do we dress?"

APRIL RELIEF COSTS DECLINE FOR BUCYRUS

BUCYRUS—Relief costs in Bucyrus took a slight drop in April, according to the regular monthly report of Safety Director W. G. Beebe. The report showed that 591 persons received relief during April as compared with 697 in March. Costs for April were $2,780.86 as compared with $3,301.81 last month. City council heard the report at the regular meeting Tuesday night

In submitting his report, Director Beebe announced that the sewing center in operation for several years, has been closed indefinitely. That the county commissioners have declined to furnish yardage for the workers and that the city has been supplying labor to several persons from other communities through the project, was given as the reason for closing the room. "Relief clients of Bucyrus are well supplied with clothing at the present time and most of the workers will be absorbed by the renovation project to be started soon," Director Beebe stated. Thirty women have been employed at the center.

Actual construction on the Bucyrus sewage disposal plant will start Monday, Mayor George T. Dustman, announced. Equipment will be moved into the city Thursday by the contractors ,and the grounds placed in readiness for work.

Plans Street Oiling.

Mayor Dustman also reported that action would be taken by the service department to oil city streets and alleys as soon as there is rain enough to pack the ground.

Upon recommendation by Mayor Dustman, council referred to its ordinance committee a former ordinance regulating the location of junk yards which the previous council body declined to adopt. The establishment of a new junk yard in the south part of the city prompted the action.

Upon recommendation by council, Service Director C. E. McNeal was authorized to declare the Bucyrus city airport closed until action could be completed on the issuing of a new lease. The service director was authorized to enter into a new lease. Closing the port was a safety measure to protect the city against possible claim for damage from accidents.

SETS DATE FOR "CLEAN-UP" WEEK

MILLERSBURG—The week of May 9 has been designated as clean-up week for Millersburg by Mayor Robert Hallam. Anytime after Monday the street commission will haul away rubbish properly placed in a container near the alley or curb. Ashes will not be hauled, however.

The unpaved streets will be conditioned for oiling and possibly oiled next week. it was decided by council. The oil is to be put on by the W. C. Lytle company, of Wooster

RITES FRIDAY

BUCYRUS — Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m. at the family home in Whetstone township for John Daniel Goldsmith, 79, Whetstone township farmer, who died at his home Tuesday. Burial will be made in the Whetstone cemetery.

Mr. Goldsmith was born in Whetstone township and lived his entire life on the same farm. He was unmarried. Survivors are two brothers, Gus of Bucyrus, and George who also lived on the home farm, and a sister, Lizzie Goldsmith, also at home.

2 DRAW FINES

ASHLAND — Workhouse sentences and fines on two counts each were imposed on an Ashland couple, Carl Kauffman, 30, and on his wife, Millicent, 35, after they pleaded guilty to charges of stealing gasoline from distributing tanks, on being arraigned in the court of Justice J. H. Armstrong.

Kauffman was fined $10 and costs on each of two counts, and his wife $5 and costs on the same counts. Both were sentenced to the Toledo workhouse, he for 60 days, and she for 30.

GETS $100 FINE

GALION — L. R. Calvin of Bellefontaine was fined $100 and costs in the court of the Justice of Peace, Grant C. Gillespie, here. He was charged by Investigator Gill of the Ohio Utilities commission with operating his truck intra-state without a certificate. Calvin had a truck of furniture enroute to Springfield. The load was transferred to a certified operator's truck

COUNCIL MEETS

WILLARD — Routine business was conducted at the meeting of city council held last evening. Street Commissioner I. N. Duffy was authorized to purchase materials needed for repairing improved streets.

The clerk, Clarence Hessler, was instructed to send a request to B. and B. railway officials to clear subways of stones and rubbish and to repair the grade crossing at Second street. The mayor's report for April showed fines amounting to $5; fees, $2, and licenses, $7. A total of $13 was collected during the month.

GALION TO ASK WPA FINANCES

GALION—A further step toward a new city building was taken Tuesday night when city council passed a resolution authorizing and directing the public service director, Jay F. Nichols, to make an application to the WPA of the PWA for assistance in constructing a city building for Galion.

Council also spent considerable time following the meeting discussing the proposition of a new reservoir which had been previously outlined by Big Four railroad officials. The reservoir would be used by both the city and the Big Four Railroad company.

A petition was received by council which had been signed by 14 property owners of foot frontage facing South Pierce street, from the Dawsett road to Wood street, asking that council construct a sanitary sewer on the street.

Robert Manning who is constructing a new home on Crew avenue, asked that council extend a water line to the property. This was referred to the water committee of council.

Mayor W. M. King's report for April showed the following collections: fines, $78; costs, $15.40; licenses. $35.

TALKS TO CLUB

Crawford Prosecutor Gives Address at Galion Meeting.

GALION—A program on "Safety" was presented for the regular meeting of the Galion Kiwanis club Tuesday noon at Carmel's. The speaker was Leo Scanlon, Crawford county prosecutor, and chairman of the Ohio State Safety council in the county. The program chairman was Kenneth M. Petri.

The speaker stressed the number of accidents caused from automobiles, and stated that three-fourths of the suits in the courts today envolve motor accidents.

It was estimated that 35 Kiwanians expect to attend the district meeting tonight at Marion. Ohio District Governor Philip E. Auer of Galion, is listed as one of the principal speakers and a guest of honor.

PICK LEADERS

ASHLAND—Annual reports of County Health Commissioner Dr. G. B. Fuller and County Health Nurse Mrs. Ruth Daum were heard at a meeting here.

Officers named at the meeting include Gileon Sprott of Savannah for a five year term on the county board of health, and W. E. Heichel of Loudonville to fill the unexpired term of J. J. Welch.

C. J. Whitmore was named to be president of the advisory health council, and J. N. Ringler was named as secretary.

MEASLES STILL GRIP COUNTY

175 New Cases Reported in Last Week; Total for Month 962.

The spread of measles in Richland county showed no signs of abating today as health authorities said 175 new cases of the disease were reported in the past week to bring the total to 962 for the month of April.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said that the total number of cases reported last month was a 100 per cent increase over March when 453 cases were listed, and nearly five times the number for February.

Of the new cases last month, 538 cases were in the city and 424 were scattered throughout various parts of the county.

RAZE BUILDING

BUCYRUS — Wreckers started Tuesday to dismantle the old Colonel Fisher property at Rensselaer and Poplar streets, once a show place of the city, to make way for the modern office building to be erected by the Ohio Power company.

The wrecking job is expected to take approximately four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bemiller, whose marriage took place Monday afternoon at the Central Church of Christ in Findlay, are now on a wedding trip and plan to spend the end of the week with the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bemiller of 323 Harding Way West, Galion.

The single ring ceremony was read at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. H. H. Carter. The church was appropriately decorated, and organ music was furnished by Mrs. Norval Knouse. The bride, Marjorie Molder, was given in marriage by her father, F H. Molder of Findlay.

Attending the couple were the bride's sister and brother, Ruth Molder and Raymond Molder.

The couple will make their home in Findlay.

The new Mrs. Bemiller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Molder of Findlay. She was graduated from Findlay high school and the Tiffin Business school. For the past two years she has been employed at the Ohio Oil company in Findlay.

The bridegroom was graduated from Galion high school in 1931, and attended Ohio State university where he was affiliated with the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. He later attended Tiffin business college and for a year has been employed by the Ohio Oil company.

SENTENCED TO WORKHOUSE

MILLERSBURG — Grover Fry, 54, WPA worker of near-by Glenmont, has been taken to Akron workhouse to serve a 60-day sentence imposed by Common Pleas Judge R. B. Putnam, after Fry pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. Fry's driving license was revoked for one year.

GALION SCHOOL BOARD ACTS ON TEACHER LIST

GALION — After considerable discussion was held regarding the matter of janitor contracts and teacher vacancies, the Galion board of education at its May meeting Tuesday night decided to adjourn for a special meeting next Tuesday morning, May 10.

The board passed a motion that the civil service commission be requested to have an examination for janitors so that the board can have a certified list for the July board meeting. On account of the retirement age there will be one or more vacancies to fill this year in the school janitor service.

The resignation of Robert Corry as physical education director and football and track coach was accepted by the board. The clerk, Harry Sanderlin, was instructed to write a letter of appreciation to Corry for his services in the Galion schools. Corry has accepted a position at Cuyahoga Falls which is a promotion.

Submits Park Plan.

O. J. Dewalt, local janitor, and Heise park caretaker, was present for the meeting and presented a number of plans for improvement at the park. He suggested the necessity of more lights in the park, and various other improvements.

The board, in approving the program of study for Senior high school for next year as presented by Supt. O. E. Hill, will eliminate the study of industrial arts from the Senior high curriculum.

A change in the age for beginning pupils was also made by the board last night. The entrance age for the first grade was set so that the child must be six years of age by Jan. 1. The age prior to this time has been set so that the child must be six before September.

The board also approved bills for the past month amounting to nearly $1,400. It also was decided that liability insurance should be taken out on a truck that several of the janitors have to drive.

VISIT SCHOOL

500 Take Part in Bucyrus 'Guest Night' Program.

BUCYRUS—More than 500 parents and friends of high school students visited the high school Tuesday night when Guest Night was observed by presenting displays of school work and a program of entertainment.

Music by the high school orchestra and other instrumental group selections, dancing, tumbling, dramatics, and a style show were a part of the program offered in connection with the displays of handiwork by the wood and metal departments, displays in science, physical education, home economics, art and class room displays.

Refreshments were served.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Insist. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Electric Rates In Mansfield Are The Lowest In History

A Farmers Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

May 3.

THE other evening after the heavy thunder shower everything looked so fresh and green in fields and woodland, the ditches by the roadside were moving streams of muddy water; in each little hollow over all the landscape stood tempting shallow ponds, many with grass blades showing well above the surface.

The children clapped their hands in glee, yelled, danced and ran about excitedly when I said they might go barefooted. Shoes were pulled off without the laces open, and placed hurriedly in a corner. The sun shone through a tattered cloud and made a faint rainbow in the east, but it was still raining, which meant impatient waiting.

"Daddy, won't you take off your shoes and stockings? It will be so much fun to have you go along," said my little girl.

I sat down on the porch step and pulled my overall legs up. Without further invitation they quickly opened the laces and pulled off my shoes and socks. It still was raining slightly, and as we waited there, barefooted, I saw the little three-year-old with both my shoes. He had filled them full of water from the dripping spouting at the far corner of the porch. "Heavy, Daddy. Water in them," he remarked.

That no more mischief might be done, I started out, the children at my heels. We splashed through every little pool of water near. We launched a boat of bark with a feather for a sail on the largest pond and watched it move across the ripples; then we headed for the road which was a mass of sticky clay. Some little gravels made up wince and limp. It was a glorious sensation to feel the soft, oozy clay about my feet and watch it come up between my toes moulded like eight creeping, crawling worms.

I wish many people of my age could know the joy of going barefoot with three children.
